Lyle Carry Campaign
On Up to Early Hour

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — A maximum of voting and a minimum of violence marked the first half of the municipal primary today as Chicagoans cast their ballots under the watchful eyes of 70,000 guards and the muzzles of the police department's riot guns.

By 11 a. m. the election board estimated that almost 500,000 of the 1,340,568 registered citizens had voted for or against Mayor William Hale Thompson, who today threw his political fortunes in the balance for the fourth time in a mayoralty race.

Twenty-five thousand policemen with riot guns and pistols patrolled the streets to maintain order, balloting and 45,000 private citizens bearing credentials as watchers against fraud took up their posts in and about the polling places.

Today's municipal primary marked the fourth time that Thompson had offered himself to the people for the Republican nomination for mayor. On the three previous occasions he was nominated and later elected. "Big Bill" met such a Republican opposition brought out against him in the campaign just ended.

RACE HORSES LEAD TO BANKER'S ARREST

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — The unwillingness of Frank Flowers, fugitive vice president of the defunct Roosevelt Bankers' State bank of Chicago to part with his race horses, caused his arrest at San Diego, Calif., detectives today said. Attaches of the state's attorney's office, armed with extradition papers, left for San Diego to return Flowers after receiving word of his capture.

Flowers, and two brothers, Samuel and Alexander, president and chairman of the bank, respectively, were named last fall under an indictment charging embezzlement of $500,000.

In attempting to trace Flowers, detectives hazard he would not be far away from his three race horses, which are quartered at Agua Caliente, Mexico, and caused a search for the banker in nearby cities, including San Diego, where he was found yesterday.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Conscience Of This Man In Stomach

MODESTO, Calif., Feb. 24. — (UP) — The seat of the conscience has been located. It's in the stomach, according to John J. Boone.

Boone appeared at the county jail and said he had passed a worthless check in San Francisco three years ago. Since then, he said, his conscience had bothered him increasingly, and the pain centered in his stomach.

Police suspected the cause of pain was hunger and were investigating his story. They don't want him as a prisoner. The jail's limit of 20 inmates already has been reached.

HOSIERY MILL WORKER KILLED DURING STRIKE

Two Others Wounded in Pennsylvania Outbreak
Early Today

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Feb. 24. — (UP) — One striking hosiery mill worker, a girl, was killed, two others, wounded early today in the first outbreak of violence resulting here from a walkout at the Mammoth Hosiery mills.

Alberta Bachman, 20, was killed and Mrs. Elsie Bachman, 25, and Russell Hastie, 25, were wounded when fired upon by a worker whose home had been stoned last night.

The trouble began late last night. Police said, when Clark Miller, a former striker who returned to work recently, reported to County Detective Calvin Goring that someone threw a stone through a front window in his home.

Miller and a friend, Robert Arnold, armed themselves and sat inside the window waiting for a possible return of the stone thrower.

About 12:30 a. m., Miller said, an automobile drew up and halted across the street from his house.

Two men alighted.

He said he called on them to halt and when they failed he fired a shot in the air. The men ran, he said, and entered the automobile and drove off. Miller said he and Arnold fired at the rear of the machine as it was driving away.

At this point John Bigelow, a neighbor of Miller, rushed out armed with a shotgun. He is said to have fired at the rear of the automobile also.

The machine halted about 100 yards from Miller's home and the three men rushed toward it. They found Miss Bachman dead in the rear seat. She died from a gunshot wound in the back, police said.

Besides the dead girl, they found Mrs. Bachman and Hastie wounded. Two other girls and a man named Van Aulen also were in the machine but were unhurt.

Bigelow, Miller and Arnold were taken into custody by Sheriff Weikesser for questioning.

DAILY TELEVISION BROADCASTS START

PASSAIC, N. J., Feb. 24. — (UP) — Television broadcasts of pictures with sound accompaniment on a schedule calling for daily programs were under way today, the De Forest Radio company announced.

The daily schedule began just as daily radio programs were started about 10 years ago.

The De Forest company announced its survey showed 10,000 sets or instruments equipped to receive broadcasts such as it is offering and it said that technical advances in the broadcasting art had helped make the programs both feasible and possible.

The broadcasts are three times daily, with the best reserved for a 90-minute period starting at 9 p. m., eastern standard time. Thirty minutes of this last period is for direct pickup programs, while the other 60 minutes is for "talkies."

STATE LEGISLATURE MEETS FOR LAST HALF OF SESSION

FRANCE, GREAT BRITAIN REACH NAVAL ACCORD

PARIS, Feb. 24. — (UP) — France and Great Britain today reached an accord, in principle, on naval limitation.

Foreign Minister Briand announced the accord which was merely verbal and will not become definite until after the British representatives have consulted Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy.

Naval Minister Charles Dumont announced the British delegation, including Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, First Lord of Admiralty A. V. Alexander and R. L. Craigie, would proceed to Rome at 5:24 p. m. to confer with Mussolini.

The details of the accord were a carefully guarded secret pending the decision of Italy, expected within five days. The negotiations, however, have been directed toward an agreement by Italy and France on naval limitation, which would end the threat of a naval building race and permit both countries to join the limitation clauses of the London naval treaty by which Britain, the United States and Japan limited their naval forces.

Kills Self As Mate Reads Will

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — "There's something in that tin can that will interest you," Mrs. Clara S. McSwain, 39, told her husband, John F. McSwain.

As McSwain looked in the can he heard his wife call his name. He turned in time to see her place a revolver to her temple and pull the trigger, killing her instantly.

Inside the can was Mrs. McSwain's last will, seven notes to relatives and $100 in cash. Police said today she was despondent over ill health.

ADVOCATES OF SHOALS BILL TO SEE HOOVER

Will Urge President Not to Veto Measure at Meeting Thursday

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. — (UP) — A delegation of senators and representatives will call at the White House Thursday to urge President Hoover to sign the White Shoals bill.

An engagement for a large group was made at the White House today by Representative Almon, Democrat, Alabama.

Almon said the Congressmen hoped to persuade Mr. Hoover not to pocket the measure or veto it.

Three vetoes have come from the White House in less than a week—with at least two more important ones yet to be issued.

Thus the President is building up a veto record which has not been approximated since the Cleveland administration.

The two yet to come involve the veterans' loan and Muscle Shoals bills, according to undisputed information from those close to the executive. A message rejecting the loan bill will be sent to Congress probably Wednesday.

The President is collecting data to bolster his veto of the veterans' loan bill. The Veterans' bureau is working in co-operation with welfare agencies gathering statistics at Mr. Hoover's request to indicate what the need is among ex-service men for additional aid from the government.

Polls and votes taken in both the senate and the house indicate the veterans' bill will pass over a veto.

The first of the three recently vetoed bills was an act giving the court of claims jurisdiction to investigate the claims of the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indians to leased district lands. Yesterday the President vetoed a bill giving civilians in the Quartermasters' corps the hospitalization right of Spanish war veterans, and a private veterans' relief bill.

ARMY'S CHAMPION BUGLER RETIRING

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24. (U. P.) — Like Alexander the Great, there are no worlds left for Private Ramon F. Lurbe, the army's champion bugler, to conquer and he is retiring.

Lurbe said today he will leave the service at the end of his present enlistment a few months hence, closing a career that began in the Spanish army under General Weyler in Cuba.

He was Weyler's orderly, but after the Spanish-American war he joined the American army and became a bugler.

After all the tournaments, at the presidio here he is known under the official title of "champion bugler."

EXPLOSION WRECKS ST. LOUIS DWELLING

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 24. — (UP) — An explosion early today wrecked an unoccupied one-story residence here. A family of five at first believed buried in the debris was found to have left the house yesterday.

Neighbors told of hearing someone in the house scream immediately after the explosion and led police and firemen on a four-hour search of the ruins until the family was found in another part of the city.

HARVESTER OFFICE DAMAGED BY BOMB

CHICAGO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — A powerful time bomb rocked the twine mills employment office of the International Harvester company today. Broke more than 150 windows and caused damage estimated at $1500.

Police attributed the bombing to terrorists who in recent months have caused extensive damage to a number of large mercantile and industrial plants, including the Furniture and Mercantile Marts, two of the world's largest buildings.

Coast Ponzi Free Men After Serving 5 Years In Prison

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — John Kenneth Frank, whose bank frauds won him the name of "Pacific Coast Ponzi" and a 10-year prison term, was a free man today.

Frank was released from the San Quentin prison road camp near San Simeon, south of here, after serving almost five years of his sentence.

He was imprisoned for embezzlement and check operations that cost eight Los Angeles banks approximately $340,000.

Frank was arrested in Chicago in January, 1926, after a nationwide search.

FRED RAFFERTY IS CALLED BY DEATH MONDAY

Stricken With Pneumonia
at His Home Here on Sunday Evening

COMING AS A SHOCK to the entire community, was an announcement today of the death of Fred Rafferty which occurred at 4 o'clock in his home, 117 East Tenth street.

Death was due to pneumonia, and his serious condition developed very rapidly after he was stricken Sunday evening. He and Mrs. Rafferty, (the former Madame Manuela V. Budrow) had come from their Hollywood home on Thursday to spend a few days in this city, and Mr. Rafferty was apparently in his usual health until Sunday. A nurse was procured at once, but medical attention and careful nursing could not suffice and his condition at once became alarming.

For approximately 45 years, Fred Rafferty had been a prominent figure in Santa Ana affairs. He and his wife, accompanied by his father, came to this city from their former home in Illinois, and speedily took a prominent part in cultural and civic affairs. His father's death occurred many years ago, and that of the first Mrs. Rafferty took place about the time the United States was involved in the World war.

Noted as travelers and art connoisseurs, Mr. and Mrs. Rafferty had made their home on East Tenth street, a place of beauty and rare cultural charm, and the collection of Chinese robes and objects of art had occupied Mr. Rafferty's interest and attention during a period of many years. Many of his priceless art objects had been loaned recently to the Los Angeles museum, and it was his intention to found an exhibit that would be difficult to surpass in any museum in the United States.

On Wednesday, Nov. 5, 1930, Mr. Rafferty was married to Madame Manuela V. Budrow, one of the most prominent artists of Southern California, whose beautiful soprano voice had earned her the title of "The Spanish Nightingale." Their common interest in the arts, especially in music, made the marriage a much gratification to source of both. They continued to maintain the family home in this city, dividing their time between Santa Ana and Hollywood where Mrs. Rafferty continued her professional work of singing and vocal classes.

Mr. Rafferty was 67 years old at the time of his death. He is survived by Mrs. Rafferty and by one sister, Mrs. Frank Hulse, of Los Angeles and Honolulu, and by other relatives, including a nephew in the east. Funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Smith and Tutthill chapel, with burial to follow in the family burial plot in a Los Angeles cemetery.

SEARCH DESERT FOR ESCAPED PRISONERS

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 24. — (UP) — A weary group of possemen trekked away from the Arizona penitentiary here at dawn today in search of 15 escaped convicts.

Hope that any of the prisoners would be apprehended in this vicinity appeared remote today. Flood waters of the Gila river prevented search of that region which is a known haven for many of Arizona's escaped prisoners.

Border points were ordered by Warden William Delbridge to keep a watch for any of the men. He broadcast descriptions of each man to every sheriff in the state.

DOG HERO KILLED

THREE RIVERS, Calif., Feb. 24. — (UP) — Ranger, 14, hero of some 250 mountain lion killings, was dead today, victim of a hit-run motorist.

Ranger was the leader of the pack of dogs owned by Jay Bruck, official California state lion hunter. Ranger's body was found on a road near here where an automobile had struck him down.

The aged dog, part bloodhound and part foxhound, was noted throughout the state.

2800 Bills On File In Two Houses

Indications Are That Session Will Last Until Middle of May

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 24. — (UP) — The California state legislature, reconvening here today for the last half of its 1931 session, faced the largest collection of bills in 20 years.

Many of the 2800 measures on the legislative files are of highly controversial nature. They include statewide water, development, re-apportionment, reorganization, prohibition, "pork barrel" appropriations, attempts to regulate public utilities, gasoline tax increases and abolition of capital punishment.

The second session is scheduled to run approximately 85 days, and adjournment is not expected until May 1 or 15.

Failure of Governor James Rolph Jr., to wield the "big stick" in the legislature may serve to further complicate matters, particularly over the question of congressional reapportionment.

All signs pointed to a renewal of the feud between Assemblyman Walter J. Liske of Santa Monica, defeated candidate for speaker, and Speaker Edgar C. Levey of San Francisco. Failure of the Southern California delegation to agree upon a system of redistricting means a warm battle on the subject, which may get out of committee onto the floor of the legislature.

Legislators favoring repeal of California's capital punishment law, backed by one of the strongest organizations in favor of the movement in years, prepared to make a strong showing in behalf of their proposal.

Another bitter fight is expected over the measure by Assemblyman Dan Emmett of Santa Paula which would prohibit all married women from holding public positions, or teaching school.

The California County Records' association, in convention at Oroville yesterday, went on record in opposition to the measure.

Complete revision of Governor Rolph's reorganization program, which proposes setting up a number of new state departments, is expected as the result of unexpected opposition which developed during the 30-day recess.

The new departments include oil and gas, mines and mining, motor vehicles, parks and forestry and child welfare. It appears unlikely that the executive will demand the creation of the child welfare department.

Armed Man Seized In Palace of Gen. Von Hindenburg

BERLIN, Feb. 24. — (UP) — An unemployed man who had been seeking financial aid in the palace of President Paul Von Hindenburg was arrested today when he pointed a loaded revolver at a detective in the reception room.

The man, identified as Alois Broll, a clerk, entered the left wing of the palace about noon. He asked for financial help, and was told he would have to submit his request in writing.

Then he drew his revolver and aimed it at the detective, but was overpowered, arrested, and handed over to police, who gave him a mental examination.

MRS. DAUGHERTY DIES
WASHINGTON COURTHOUSE, O., Feb. 24. — (UP) — Mrs. Jane Daugherty, mother of Harry M. Daugherty, United States attorney general in the cabinet of Warren G. Harding, and of Mal S. Daugherty, died here today. She was in her 95th year.

Mal Daugherty is on trial here for alleged misuse of funds of the defunct Ohio State bank, of which he was president.

CONDITIONS IN INDIA NOW ARE MOST SERIOUS

Mahatma Gandhi and Lord
Irwin to Resume Conferences Again

LONDON, Feb. 24. — (UP) — A momentous battle of wills in which the Mahatma M. K. Gandhi has pitted himself against the government of Great Britain entered its critical stage today with the future of the great sub-continent of India at stake.

Whether the 320,000,000 Indians shall go forward peacefully toward the set goal of federal government or shall renew rebellion and bloodshed for complete independence from British rule will be decided by the outcome of conversations between the slight bent man who is called "The Great Soul" and the tall, stately representative of King George, Viceroy Lord Irwin.

Already stirred to tense feelings by fresh disorders and fighting in Bombay after almost a year of riots, battles and wholesale arrests growing out of the civil disobedience movement, the natives awaited a decision with great uncertainty.

Lord Irwin has consulted the home government by telegraph as to future action. The mahatma has summoned his lieutenants from all over India to a new Delhi for consultation.

Probably today the two men will resume their conferences, Lord Irwin attempting to persuade Gandhi to relinquish the civil disobedience movement and the boycotts of foreign goods and liquor—the most powerful weapons of the Nationalists.

BRIDGE PLAYER ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 24. — (UP) — Testimony in the trial of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, charged with shooting her husband after he went set on her four spade bridge bid, probably will begin in circuit court here this afternoon.

Selection of 21 additional prospective jurors was resumed at the beginning of the second day of the trial today.

James A. Reed, chief of the defense staff and former United States senator, and Prosecutor James R. Page closely questioned talesmen yesterday.

DECISION OF JUDGE CLARK IS REVERSED

Associate Justice Roberts
In Reading Rejects
Every Argument Made

BIG CROWD PRESENT

Findings of Supreme Group Unanimous and Every Member Signs Report

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. — (UP) — The United States supreme court today upheld the validity of the prohibition amendment. The decision was unanimous. It reversed the decision of Judge Clark of the United States district court of New Jersey in which Clark held that the eighteenth amendment was invalid because the method of its adoption was not in accordance with the constitution.

Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts, who has served on the court only a few months, read the court's decision.

He was emphatic in rejecting every argument upon which the attack on prohibition was based. Justice Roberts started reading the decision immediately upon the convening of the court, after a three weeks' recess, at noon today.

The justice, adjusting his eye glasses, delivered the opinion, largely from memory, addressing the crowded little courtroom in the capitol building.

He referred only infrequently to the printed opinion of the court.

He said that the attorneys attacking the amendment asked the court to read into the "plain language" of the fifth article of the constitution—the amending article—a clause to the effect that the framers of the constitution did not trust legislatures to interfere with individual rights.

"This cannot be done," he said.

Roberts found the framers of the constitution used "meticulous care" in writing that instrument and that they were experts in expressing themselves.

"The same arguments were pressed upon us," Roberts said, "in the national prohibition cases in 1920 in only slightly different forms."

Roberts said "no limitation was intended" in framing article five. "The constitution was written to be understood by the voters," he said.

Roberts said the court wished to reiterate that "unless and until" it was modified by legislative process, the eighteenth amendment must remain in the constitution.

Lawyers believe the decision ended any possibility of the amendment being finally invalidated in the courts.

He referred here to the argument that the 10th amendment, adopted after the constitution itself was adopted, had a limiting effect designed to prevent rights being taken from the people through acts of their legislatures in ratifying constitutional amendments.

REPUBLICAN HOUSE LEADERS WORRIED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24. — (UP) — Republican house leaders were in somewhat of a quandary today because of the threat of discord in the party caucus Thursday night raised by Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia, of New York, and a small group which sympathizes with him in his fight on the caucus as an instrument of party government.

They were faced today with a decision as to whether Thursday's meeting, at which the speaker and floor leader are to be renominated, is to be a "caucus" which will bind those present or merely a non-binding "conference."

LaGuardia says he can not participate in a caucus as that has been outlawed by the party.

Santa Anans Save Children Marooned In Floods

AID RELIEF OF TOWN ISOLATED AS DAM BREAKS

The story of how a party of Santa Ana motorists and guests fought their way through the swollen streams caused by the recent floods in Arizona, and how two men of the party brought food and relief to a group of children in a small town cut off from the world by the torrential waters, was revealed here today following the return of the group to this city.

The party included Mrs. Emma H. Hill and Mrs. C. W. Courtney, 4730 North Flower street; W. F. Rurup, 206 East Washington avenue; and Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Rurup, of Oakland, who returned last night.

Planning to be gone for three days on a visit to the Rurup ranch near Chandler, Ariz., the party was gone for 10 days, and fought delay on every hand as it was caught in the flood region.

W. F. Rurup and E. G. Rurup, assisted by a group of others marooned by the flood between Tacna and Mohawk, Ariz., learned of the plight of a group of refugees, including many children, who were isolated in a small community without food. Swollen streams swelled by the breaking of a dam above, had washed out roads and bridges. The group finally brought relief to the marooned and hungry community by building a temporary bridge across one of the rushing streams.

For two days the Santa Ana party stayed at Tacna, having returned there for safety when it was found that the swollen streams beyond made it impossible to proceed. There was plenty of food, but the hotel was overcrowded and the 250 travelers there because of the flood found it difficult to obtain shelter. Travelers from all walks of life and all parts of the country were there but all were alike in the emergency.

When the local party finally made its way out of Tacna, a car was driven for five miles on a railroad right of way before it reached a road that could be traveled.

Advices Against Opening Bids On Subway Project

Charles Swanner, city attorney, announced today that he will advise the city council at its regular meeting tonight to return unopened bids received on the construction of the subway on East Fourth street. It would not be fair to the bidders, Swanner declared, to accept bids on the project while the matter is under litigation. An injunction against beginning work on the project was requested recently in the courts by property owners in the district. This was done in an attempt to secure damages for the property owners before the construction work was started. An order of the court does not prevent opening bids but bars construction until the damage point is settled. Clyde Jenken, city engineer, stated today that the contract for the paving of Richmond street probably would be awarded at the council meeting tonight.

Worker Buried Alive By Steam Shovel

To be buried alive and come out uninjured—such was the unusual experience Jack Gill underwent this morning when a large excavating machine emitted a load of dirt on him while he was working on the new post office site.

Gill was working near the edge of the large hole that is being dug for the basement of the building, when the bank caved in. At the same time the excavating machine emptied its contents on him. He was unable to extricate himself, but was immediately began to dig him out. It took three or four minutes to get him out from beneath the pile of dirt.

A doctor was called, who immediately took him to the Santa Ana Valley hospital, where he was given a thorough examination that failed to reveal any injury resulting from the accident.

One More Jail Inmate Taken Into Hospital

Little change was seen today in the diphtheria situation at the Orange county jail, where Sunday 10 men, including two jailers, were found to be carrying the germs, according to Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer. A federal prisoner, W. C. Hamilton, was removed from the jail to the county hospital at 10 a. m. today with a high fever and was placed in the contagion ward. Hospital attendants were not ready this afternoon however to say that he had diphtheria. Theo Lacy Jr., head jailer and Charles Virgo, turnkey continued to remain in their quarters today, and the eight prisoners at the county hospital were being kept in the contagion ward, the hospital announced.

Dr. Sutherland said that there was nothing alarming about the jail situation, and that he hoped to have the disease under control in a few days. Where prisoners are found to be carrying the germs they will be taken immediately to the hospital.

The jail continued to receive prisoners today as usual. Instead of officers booking as usual, federal prisoners were brought in yesterday afternoon. All visiting at the jail has been stopped for the time being, however.

ANAHEIM SITE OF COMBINED SHOWS

Anaheim will be the site of the combined California Valencia, Orange show and the Orange County fair, it was unanimously decided at a meeting of the committee appointed by the county who met last week in the Elks' club in Anaheim. The committee was an executive committee appointed by the larger body to determine the site and other problems affecting the merger. They met last night in the Chicken Inn at Garden Grove.

The unified exhibition will be held in Anaheim this year owing to the fact that there is no time left to select a new site and that the Anaheim show has the lease on the grounds paid for the next three years.

A sub-committee was appointed to arrange the working details of the new show and another to arrange for a system of finance for the show.

It was decided that ultimately a new site would have to be selected to care for the growth of the show. Owing to the financial difficulties encountered by both shows in the past, it was decided that the new show should be made for covering the expenses of the show.

70,000 ON GUARD AT CITY POLLS

as the mayor's strongest opponent matched all of Thompson's swash-buckling campaign tactics and ended the contest well ahead in the field of personal influence.

Less strident but no less determined were the campaigns of two other Republican aspirants for Thompson's mantle, Arthur F. Albert, the "Gold Coast" alderman, and George K. Schmidt, who resigned from the mayor's cabinet to oppose him in the primary.

Extraordinary precautions against fraud and violence were prompted by counter charges between Lytle and the mayor that each was in league with gangdom to steal the election.

As if to confirm both contentions, "Scarface" Al Capone, the well known gangster and campaign leader, arrived in town from Florida on the eve of the election. Lytle had charged that Capone contributed $150,000 to previous Thompson campaigns and was the "power behind blundering" Bill's administration. The mayor in turn charged that the "nutty Judge" was importing 300 St. Louis gangsters to steal ballots. The polls opened at 6 a. m. and nearly an hour before dawn the first of the city's 1,340,566 registered voters appeared at the barber and pressing shops which served as polling places in outlying districts. Politicians estimated that between 700,000 and 1,000,000 votes would be cast before the booths closed at 5 p. m.

APPRAISAL ON PROPOSED PARK SITE IS FILED

Creation of a state park at San Clemente took another step toward accomplishment today when the report of the appraisal committee appointed by the board of supervisors to determine the value of the property under consideration, was filed with the supervisors. The value of the 300-acre tract and 6970 feet of ocean frontage was fixed at $229,700 by the appraisers, F. E. McCarter, president of the Santa Ana Realty board, and W. L. Salisbury, Santa Ana real estate man.

Filing of the appraisal brought forth a statement from Supervisor George Jeffrey that he had been informed the state park commission was putting $200,000 into escrow today to cover its share of one half of the cost of the tract under an offer made by Hamilton H. Cotton for San Clemente interests. This report also had been heard by Supervisor William Schumacher, he indicated, but seemed to be startling news to Chairman John C. Mitchell.

When asked for verification of this report by The Register today, H. W. O'Melveny, of Los Angeles, member of the state park commission, said that the money had not been put in escrow yet, but that he expected it would be in three or four weeks. "All preparations are being made to do this," he said, "but legal requirements prevent it being done right now." The amount which would go into escrow, he said, was $200,000.

The San Clemente site, which was offered after the state had approved a site at Huntington Beach, on which condemnation proceedings have since been instituted by the state, has been strongly pushed by San Clemente interests in the past several weeks. The appraisal committee for the San Clemente site was appointed by action of the supervisors three weeks ago over the protest of Chairman Mitchell.

Tools valued at $12 were reported stolen from the Sanborn Plumbing shop at 520 East Fourth street, yesterday. The tools were the property of Harold M. Hall.

Study Group for Mothers To Begin On Next Thursday

Another study group for mothers is being organized under the leadership of Mrs. Ida Wallace, it was announced today by Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education in Santa Ana schools. Mrs. Wallace has been with the study groups under Dr. Gertrude Laws all this year and last year and will now act as a leader to direct the study of mothers who have not had the chance to get into Dr. Laws' classes.

The class will meet each Thursday at the Y. W. C. A. room, 105 East Fifth, from 9:30 to 11 a. m. "They will study those problems which affect the welfare and development of the child and will give special attention to the problems arising from economic depression to the end that they as mothers may be better able to meet their own responsibilities in the home. Any mother or anyone else especially interested in the child-adult relationships, is invited to join this class," Mrs. Weston said.

Teachers hold benefit event for Red Cross

Thirty-two dollars was obtained as a donation to the Red Cross by means of a dinner and program given by the Santa Ana City Teachers' league last night in the cafeteria of the Julia Lathrop school.

Dinner consisted of Mexican dishes prepared by Mrs. D. W. Kooser and was served by the ninth grade girls under the direction of Mrs. Ethel Sink.

After the guests had been seated Miss Pearl Nicholson read a pageant, "The Birth of an Empire," by Mrs. Jennie Lasby Tessonman. The various episodes were depicted by members of the Teachers' league in costume.

Episode 1, the Indians—T. P. McKee took part of an Indian chief and squaws were Miss Mary Priscilla Allen, Miss Louise Griffith, and Mrs. Lyle Mitchell.

Episode 2, the Padres—This part was depicted by Lynn Crawford.

The Rev. Perry Schrock, pastor of the Congregational church, gave a talk on a trip to Mexico that he had taken.

Much of the success of the affair was due to the efforts of Miss Pearl Nicholson, first vice president of the league, and chairman of the social committee and her social committee which consisted of one member from each school.

Guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Cranston, Dr. and Mrs. Percy Davis, the Rev. and Mrs. Perry Schrock and R. A. Goodell.

Noted Beauty Finds Dandy Way to Make Gray Hair Dark

Helen Lang Says It's The Best Way To Stay Young Looking

"What shall I do, my hair is getting gray?" I recommend only one preparation I've tried them all. It's an improved formula made from that wonderful old recipe of sage tea and sulphur. It is easy to use. Gray disappears overnight. And after two or three applications hair is restored to the exact shade you want, so evenly, so naturally, nobody'll ever know. Just pay your druggist 75c for a large bottle of Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur and follow the simple directions.—(Adv.)

case, the court's opinion said: "The United States relies upon the fact that every amendment has been adopted by the method pursued in respect of the 18th. Appellees reply that all these save the 18th dealt solely with governmental means and machinery rather than with the rights of the individual citizen."

"But we think that several amendments touch rights of the citizens. Notably the 13th, 14th, 15th, 16th and 19th, and in view of this weight is to be given to the fact that these were adopted by the method now attacked."

"For these reasons we reiterate what was said in the national prohibition cases, that the amendment by lawful proposal and ratification has become a part of the constitution."

"The order of the court below is reversed."

CUSTODY OF GIRL SOUGHT IN COURT

Custody of a six year old girl, which is contested by her grandmother and aunt on one side and her father on the other, was taken under advisement by Judge George K. Soovel today after he had denied a petition to appoint the grandmother and aunt guardians of the child, Helen Marie LuJan.

The custody of the girl was awarded to her mother under a court order in the past, but after the mother died last October, the father, Leonard LuJan, asserts he made a demand for the custody of the child from the grandmother, Lola Shipley, and the aunt, Alma Lahn, but was denied possession of the child. He was contemplating the habeas corpus proceedings when the guardianship action was taken by the mother's relatives, he informed the court.

The petitioners asserted that the father had not contributed to the support of the child for the last 18 months and that the girl had lived with them for the last four years, both charges being denied by the father.

DEATHS

A WORD OF COMFORT

Lots of people are feverishly busy doing things which amount to nothing. Multitudes are so busy that they are making progress simply because they are moving when, in fact, they are on the wrong path. You do not want to waste your life when you are struggling hard to resist the temptation to quit trying to play a man's part in the world, in spite of the awful ache and loneliness in your heart. Ask God to guide you. Renew your trust in His love. He will frequently reward you by becoming conscious of His presence with you. You will soon become confident that what you do and the path which you tread are leading you where you want to be and into the satisfactions which abide.

OFFICERS FOR MEMORY LANE GROUP CHOSEN

Organization of Memory Lane association was effected last night when representatives from Orange county and Long Beach patriotic orders were present at the meeting held in the Legion hall in this city. C. W. Hyde acted as chairman, stating that the purpose of the organization is to beautify one of the shortest routes from Recreation park in Long Beach to some point in Orange county, by planting trees. It was suggested that a route from the beach city to Irvine park would be the most feasible one.

Officers were chosen, with the president to be elected at a later date. Mrs. Lewis Fleckenstein, president of the National Tree Planting association, and Col. Jesse A. Jackson, both of Long Beach, were elected honorary vice-presidents. Fred R. Dukes, of Garden Grove, was chosen active vice-president; Dean Collier, treasurer; and Miss Lydia Fisher, secretary. The executive board is to be elected in the near future, and will include one member from each organization interested in the association.

Miss Fisher has asked that all patriotic groups interested appoint one official representative to be present and vote at meetings, and that they notify her of their plans to join. The next meeting will be held within two weeks, and the date will be announced later. Individuals who wish to take part in the work of beautifying the highway are invited to do so, Miss Fisher stated, and each tree planted will be in memory of some man who took part in one of the great wars.

Among those present at the meeting last night were Mrs. Fleckenstein and Col. Jackson, of Long Beach; Mrs. Clara R. Cushman, a member of the county planning commission; George R. Wells, a member of the Santa Ana planning commission; Nat Neff, county engineer, and C. W. Hyde of the engineer's office.

REVEALS PROGRAM FOR BREAKFASTERS

Members of the Santa Ana Breakfast club who attend the session of the organization at 7:30 a. m. next Thursday in Ketter's cafe, will be rewarded for their early rising by some eye-opening numbers, according to the program committee, composed of Isadore Fields and V. C. Croal. After a stimulus of ham and eggs and the usual calisthenic drill, any spirits which remain irritated at having to roll out so early will be soothed by strains of music from the violin of George Evans, of the Institute of Musical Education of Orange county. The violinist will be accompanied by Paul LeBar. The eye-opener will include several dance numbers to be presented by Marie Rockwell and Veneta Vlau, both of the Rockwell School of the Dance. They will give an exhibition of ballroom dancing, showing the "Hollywood Hop" and the "Waltz Clyde." The committee also has a third number which is to be a surprise, it is announced.

Calvin Coolidge Says

NORTH HAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 24.—One of the most astounding spectacles is the complacency with which people permit themselves to be plundered by extravagant governmental expenditure under the pretense of taxing the rich to help the poor. The poor are not helped but hurt. Taxes have to be collected by the rich before they are paid. They are collected from all the people. A higher tax means real wages are lower. The cost of living is higher. The chance to work is less. Every home is burdened. Its value is decreased. The quality of the food, clothing and shelter of the children is reduced.

The congress and the legislature know these results of extravagance, the people may not fully realize them but they suffer from them. Legislators do not want to be extravagant. Minorities drive them to it. The people who pay and suffer give little support to economy. They make no threat of political retaliation against those who are taking their money, increasing their cost of living, removing their chance to work. Those who demand appropriations inspire all the fear. Aggregate state and town debt, national and local taxes are increasing enormously. Unless the people resist vigorously and immediately they will be overwhelmed.

Woman Injured In Car Crash

Lela Roll, of 204 West Orange road, Santa Ana, was reported slightly injured yesterday when the car she was driving collided with a machine driven by Julian C. Cruwell, of 118 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, at Eighth and Baker streets, according to a report filed with the city police. She was taken home after the accident and is not believed to have been seriously hurt. Her father, M. C. Roll, riding with her at the time, was not injured.

C. F. Lewis, of 206 North Mariposa street, Los Angeles, was reported injured in an automobile accident near First street and Tustin avenue, on Washington's Birthday. The report was made at the sheriff's office today.

While here Lucas addressed the student body of McCormac School of Business and Secretarial Training, 700 North Main street on the subject of "Business Ethics."

Poultrymen of the county are invited to attend a meeting at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, at the farm bureau office, Santa Ana. The subject for discussion will be "Brooding and Rearing of Chicks." Plans for the series of poultry meetings in connection with a poultry correspondence course will be announced. Those who may be interested in such a course are urged to attend this initial meeting.

The committee also has a third number which is to be a surprise, it is announced.

NEW GARBAGE CONTRACT FOR LAGUNA BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 24.—Prospects of a different system of handling trash and garbage are seen in the instructions of the city council, given Monday night to City Clerk G. W. Prior, to look further into a proposition made by Jack Mesrobian, of Los Angeles. Discussion of the purchase of equipment for street repairs resulted in a determination to make investigation Friday or Saturday with a view to purchasing. No action was taken on the recommendation of the chamber of commerce that a setback ordinance be adopted for Coast boulevard north of High drive and south of Cypress to the city limits.

The proposition made by Mesrobian was to enter into a contract with the city over a period of three to five years during which the city would pay $300 a month, Mesrobian to give bond for the performance of his part of the contract, the city to provide dump ground, collections to be made daily in the business district, twice a week in residential sections. The city is now doing this work itself, billing residents each month. Considerable difficulty has been met. The city has a contract with Tom D. Bird by which he pays $2575 over a period of five years on a graduated basis for garbage.

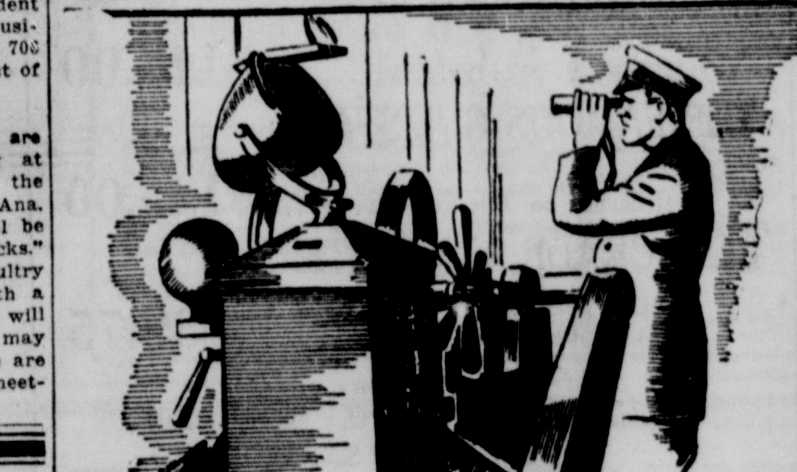

City Attorney Leslie F. Kimmel was instructed to draw an ordinance to prevent sale of fireworks or discharge of them within the city. Purchase of a seven-passenger Cadillac car for police work was authorized, the price being $1815. Progress of securing easements for Glenneve and other streets were reported by City Engineer Frank P. Gowan.

Burton Is Given Folsom Sentence

A prospect of from one to 10 years in state prison became a reality today for Robert Burton, 35, who was arrested in Phoenix, Ariz., for Fullerton police last week, when he was sentenced by Judge H. G. Ames to Folsom prison for the term prescribed by law.

Burton had pleaded guilty to a charge of grand theft in connection with taking an automobile owned by T. P. Corcoran, of Fullerton. He has a long police record, according to the office of Sheriff Logan Jackson, which started when he served a term in the Illinois state reformatory for stealing a horse. Other penal institutions in which he has served time are Leavenworth, Wyoming state penitentiary and Montana reformatory.

Classes Given Precedence Over S. A. Court

When a liquor charge interferes with school classes, so far as the city police are concerned, the school classes come first.

Such was a ruling handed out in the case of Elay Salazar, 21, of the Vendome rooms here, arrested on February 22, for having in his car a small amount of liquor. Salazar was told to go to his classes in Los Angeles and come to Judge Talbot's city court on February 28, a Saturday, when there wasn't any school.

R. C. MCMILLAN GETS NATIONAL BUILDERS POST

R. C. McMillan, Santa Ana contractor, was named California representative of the national board of control, National Association of Builders Exchanges, at the national convention held in San Antonio, Texas, last week. This fact was made public here today by William Tway, who returned home Sunday from the convention where he was the delegate from the Orange County Builders Exchange.

One of the most interesting facts brought out by the convention, Tway said, was the acknowledged let-down in building throughout the nation. Means of helping better this condition were discussed and the most help, it was decided, could be obtained through government construction projects and improvement of financing to contractors.

The convention heard protests against governmental policy of buying materials for the Boulder dam. The national board of control was asked to consider recommendations on this policy.

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

One of the last surviving Romanovs, Marie, grand duchess of Russia, tells her own story in "Education of a Princess." She was grand-daughter of Tsar Alexander II and cousin of the ill-fated Nicholas. The pride and tragedy of those last days of royalty have never been told before in court circles and yet saw them from the viewpoint of a liberal and evaluating mind. For her imperial highness is first of all an individual; her half ironic title "Education of a Princess," sets the key of her memoir, the truthful record of how one born to the nobility found herself confronted with a life for which she had never been prepared.

No contrast in history has been more violent than that between the chaotic experiment of communism and the sumptuous, easy life of the old regime, with its incredible pomp and its ostrich-like disregard of the seething unrest underneath it. The Grand Duchess Marie, although she is still in her thirties, has lived through from one age to another. A charmed innocence hung over her courtly childhood. Later, doomed to marry a stranger whom she could not learn to love, she stirred Europe by her divorce from Prince William of Sweden. Only after the forces of the revolution had broken down the barriers was she free to marry the man of her choice. The story moves with the dramatic intensity and sweep of a great Russian novel through the banishment of her father for his unassonated second marriage, the assassination of her uncle during the 1905 uprising, her war service as a nurse at the front, the revolution and with it the murder of her closest friends and relations, her own thrilling escape with her husband and brother-in-law. As the sister of the Grand Duke Dmitri, who was implicated with Tsupov in the killing of Rasputin, she tells of that sensational event from an entirely new angle.

The grand duchess now lives in the United States, adapting herself to democracy and applying the practical lessons of this "education." Her book holds a singular charm and a wealth of character and incident, as well as great documentary value.

Very little has been written about the picturesque land of the pepper bird, although Liberia is rapidly finding its place in the sun and is becoming increasingly important in the economic development of the world. In "The Land of the Pepper Bird," by Sidney de la Rue, we have a book that presents a complete and accurate picture of the black republic of Liberia on the west coast of Africa.

All phases of life in this strange country are discussed thoroughly. Its flora and fauna are described in a manner that makes us feel the beauty and variety that exist there. The customs of the people and their social and economic problems as the attempt is made to make a place in the modern world are very vividly and sympathetically presented to us. We feel the great power and color in the life of these natives through events sometimes humorous, and sometimes breath taking. Permeating everything, a part of all lives yet mysterious and remote from the traveler, are the religious beliefs of these people. The chapters on native cults, superstitions, and the dread black magic are particularly interesting.

Mr. de la Rue spent a number of years in Liberia in the official capacity of its financial adviser. This is a trained observer, who has lived with these people and tried to help them solve some of their problems, he has brought to these pages a narrative that is not only varied and entertaining, but which is also soundly informative. The volume will be a valuable addition to the literature that treats of strange lands and strange customs in a comprehensive manner and which records information of genuine value to future researchers.

In the southwest of the United States, land of limitless spaces, of cliff and canyon, mountain and mesa, sky and desert, there has long lived a free people of the first, the only real American race. Edgar I. Hewett tells us their story in "Ancient Life in the American Southwest."

The painstaking research of many years has reconstructed the record, drawing it from the dusty face of the desert itself. Much is told us in the crumbling remnants of once pretentious houses. What stories can be read from ancient rubbish heaps and burial pits, from the broken shards of pottery, from the skulls and bones of freemen who died before Columbus! That they had a high degree of civilization is shown in the old ditches and canals, rivaling those of Egypt. Of course, we learn of their past through the folk-lore, the traditions, the art and habits of scattered and decimated descendants. Finally a wealth of material has been revealed through modern psychoanalytical methods, from the crevices of the living Indian brain, where ancestral memories sleep.

The pick and spade of the archaeologist coupled with the imagination of the artist have reacted a history of an almost perfect adaptation to environment. It is a story as fascinating, as glamorous as that of any race on earth. There emerge the Pueblos of the valleys, the cliff dwellers of the canyons, the peoples of the painted desert, the Navajo and the Hopi. We read again of the fabled Grand Quivira and the truth about the Seven Cities of Cibola. This is the dramatic record of a mysterious race of great power, the master builders of the desert, who in a strip of land ten miles long by one mile wide built homes more enduring than any other in the ancient world.

The common heritage of these old communities is revealed: their genius for successful republican government, their love of beauty, their mastery of construction and design, their physical superiority, their dominating love of home and the beautiful imagery of their folk-lore and their ceremonial religion.

COLORFUL BAND PROGRAM WILL BE PRESENTED

By RUTH ANDREWS

When the curtain at the Santa Ana high school auditorium rises next Tuesday evening, the music lovers of this city, as well as of the neighboring communities, are to hear an unusually well contrasted program which will be given by the Santa Ana Municipal Band of 60 musicians conducted by D. C. Cianfoni, well known conductor and composer.

The program is made up of selections from American, Austrian, Italian, Russian and French compositions and without doubt is the most colorful program ever presented by this well known organization, which is well known for its masterly presentations. One of the outstanding selections is "The Roman Carnival" overture by Berlioz.

This overture was originally written as an introduction to the second act of Berlioz' opera, "Benvenuto Cellini." The opera itself was not very successful but this overture, independently entitled "Carnaval Romain" has proved exceedingly attractive ever since it was composed. Its first concert performance took place at Paris, Feb. 8, 1844, under Berlioz' personal direction. It pleased the audience so greatly on this occasion that it had to be repeated.

The chief thematic material of the overture is taken directly from the score of the opera. It begins "Allegro assai con fuoco" the chief theme being taken from the saltarello (a dance in six-eight or six-four time, popular in Rome and its environments since the 15th century) which occurs in the second act of the opera. In Berlioz' original score, this theme is announced on forte by the violins and violas, answered by the woodwind instruments in free imitation; and horns, bassoons, trumpets and cornets make a second response in the third measure. Then there is a sudden silence. Trills that constantly swell lead to an "Andante sostenuto" in three-four time. The English horn sings the melody of Benvenuto which occurs in the first act, against a pizzicato accompaniment. After a repetition of this song by other instruments a dance tune is heard as though coming from a distance. The pace grows livelier, and chromatic sixths in the woodwind lead to the "Allegro vivace," the main body of the overture. The theme is built up of fragments and then immediately developed. There are constant returns to the theme heard at the beginning of the overture, but there is no formal second theme. The dance music grows softer; and the love song of Benvenuto returns as a counter theme for contrapuntal use, first in the bassoons, then in other wind instruments, while the strings keep up the saltarello rhythm. The saltarello finally comes back, is again developed, and prevails, with a theme which has been derived from it, until the end.

Hector (Louis) Berlioz, styled as the Father of Modern Orchestration, was a man of unusually diversified abilities and in his time occupied a leading position not only as a composer of gigantic orchestral and choral works, but as a conductor, critic and writer of verse and prose as well. He was entered twice as a student in the Paris Conservatory and won the much coveted Prix de Rome in 1830. In 1865 he was chosen a member of the Academie and decorated with the Cross of the Legion of Honor.

Tone color, and to some extent sensational effects, seemed of more importance to him than form, and as all of his music aims at some definite description, he may be justly and primarily considered as one of the foremost exponents of program music of his time.

In addition to the selected program, a vocal soloist, Robert Sellon, a very gifted young man who made his debut with the Los Angeles Opera company last fall, taking a role in the "Girl of the Golden West" with Jeritza and Jagel, will sing two groups of songs. He will be accompanied at the piano by Mr. G. Casellotti, prominent opera coach of Los Angeles.

This concert is the second of the winter series to be given by the band. It is offered free to the public. Music lovers throughout the county are also welcome.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Who, among his friends, would recognize Robert G. Horn of the Frances Willard junior high school teaching staff, in this saddest and bewhiskered elderly pater-familias? But it is truly Robert Horn, as he will appear Thursday night in "The Angel in the House," third in the season's list of Community Plays. Horn takes the role of Sir Rupert Bindloss, Bart., and with him in the picture are his two young daughters, "Lillie," (seated on his knee), played by Miss Sallie Coe, and "Joan," played by Margaret Lyon Britton. The play will be given in Ebell auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

Mrs. Rosella Rudd, chairman of the entertainment committee, presented Myrtle and Christine Pickering in a song and dance number, accompanied by their father, O. J. Pickering; Robert Close in piano-accompaniment numbers and Gilbert Kuenzli in song numbers, accompanied by Miss Hazel Filer, Anaheim.

Mrs. Ellen Croteau, noble grand of Trinity, announced that April 13 will be Friendship night with other lodges in the district invited to join in a "hard time" party. A prize will be given to the man and woman appearing in the tackiest costumes.

KEEN INTEREST IS AROUSED IN PLAY OFFERING

Ticket sales for the third and final Community Play of the season, "The Angel in the House," indicate a keen interest on the part of Santa Ana theater-goers, according to Robert L. Brown, business manager of the Community Players' association.

"Evidently the word has gone out that this play is one of the most entertaining things ever produced by the local group," continued Brown. "Just at present, when the whole country is thinking in terms of depression, we need things to make us laugh, and to my way of thinking, the Players did a wise thing in selecting a sparkling comedy instead of a drama of more serious nature."

Those who have attended some of the rehearsals in The Barn have declared that "The Angel in the House" offers one of the most amusing plays ever selected by the reading committee of the association, and all are agreed that George Dunham, director, is making the most of the amusing situations and lines. It will be given in Ebell auditorium Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week.

While this will be the last community play of the season, ticket holders will have other entertainment features included in their season tickets, for the annual Spring tournament of One-Act Plays will be held in April, when little theaters from all over the Southland will send their representatives to compete for the silver cup offered annually by Santa Ana, the originator of the tournament. It was decided to incorporate the tournament in this year's program, although in previous years there have been four plays for the holders of season tickets, while the tournament has been a feature to itself, with ticket sales necessary for it alone.

The cast of this final local production includes Charles Haas as "The Honorable Hyacinth Petavel," Robert G. Horn as "Sir Rupert Bindloss," Tevis Westgate as "Basil Malet," Wally Grigg as "Count Pietro Rossi," Tom Halliwell as "Robert," Charles Morgan as the footman, Sally Coe as "Lillie Bindloss," Margaret Lyon Britton as "Joan Bindloss" and Irma Huffman May as "Lady Sarel."

CAPISTRANO CHILD ATTACKED BY DOG

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Feb. 24.—Dick, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Preddy, was badly bitten Monday by a white Spitz dog belonging to William Oliveres. Dr. Paul Esslinger was called and the child was given medical treatment. The dog, which appeared vicious, was placed under observation for rabies in Santa Ana.

The child, who lives with his parents in one of the cottages of the Mission Auto camp, was standing in his own doorway when the dog, which has been a playmate, ran in to the court. He called to the animal and the dog turned and attacked him, biting and lacerating him on the face and neck. Although seriously torn, his face will not be permanently disfigured, but the child suffered greatly from fright and shock. The father of the boy is employed on the Ortega highway.

NEWS OF THE SCHOOLS

Julia Lathrop

On Wednesday, February 18, clubs met at Julia Lathrop for the second time during the new semester.

Several organizations have enthusiastic members who have rejoined the club this semester. The Archery club, under Mr. Egger's supervision, has arranged to use a vacant lot near the school. The boys have set up a target, and are fast becoming efficient in this fascinating sport.

Miss Nora Reid's Golf club is progressing rapidly. Members have been very interested in playing off a tournament which was started last semester.

Hobbies Discussed
The high seven 214 class in English gave interesting two minute talks on "Hobbies" recently, in Miss Blythe's room. Each student explained his hobby, and many brought samples from their collections to show the class. Old coins, stamps, shells, rocks, pictures and reading seemed to be the most popular hobbies.

Patriotic Assembly
Celebrating the birthdays of Lincoln and Washington, a patriotic assembly was sponsored on Friday, February 20, by Miss Young and Miss Kline. The following program was presented by the students: Patriotic songs, entire school led by Miss Cornell; Gettysburg address, Marion Phyllis and Eleanor Ford; "Who's Who in February," a play by members of the 414 history class; school song.

Club Affairs
Members of the Lathrop Executive club under Mr. Gilman's supervision have been placed on all student committees. This enables a representative from each home room to be active in all school affairs.

The Craft club recently elected officers with the following results: President, Walter Sorenson; vice president, Juliette Wolven; secretary-treasurer, Billy Mandy; sergeant-at-arms, Bain Alexander; reporter, Dorothy Van Dusen; house committee, Mary Veach and Herbert Lyman.

STUDENT ELECTROCUTED
BERLIN—Hans Thiele, a science student at the University of Halle, was electrocuted in the college laboratory when 4000 volts of electricity passed through his body. The tragedy occurred while Thiele was taking a protracted examination on electric rays.

GERMAN SYSTEM WAS ENVIED BY EUROPE'S SPIES

EDITOR'S NOTE—This article, the third of a series on spy operations in Europe discusses the methods used by Germany. Other articles in the series will appear from time to time.

PARIS, Feb. 24.—The espionage system perfected by Germany in pre-war days was a model of efficiency. Austria, Hungary, France, Belgium, Russia, were just so many classifications in a card index that was an epitome of the intimate details of Europe's military organizations.

During the World war, the German spy service was the envy of the Allies. Spies in the pay of Germany rode, or walked across France at will. Women camp followers drew their pay checks from Berlin. Clandestine wireless plants behind the front line on the French side of the western front worked for hours on end, relaying reports to Wilhelmstrasse.

German Efficiency
The thoroughness of German spy methods was well exemplified when, on the opening day of war in 1914, the French General Staff found itself without modern maps of the frontier region. The German general staff, on the contrary, had a complete map of France, every turn in the road, every cross road and hill.

For 40 years before the war, a German of Leipzig named Karl Baedeker had made the guide books for France. He did it so well that all his French competitors withdrew from the field. Baedeker had sent his engineers all over France until they had made an accurate map of every inch of French soil.

It was no trouble at all for the German staff to send to Leipzig and obtain the originals which had been checked for accuracy only a few weeks before the war broke out.

No Waiters
One of the strange memories of Paris, during the early days of the war, was the inability of Parisians to get a drink at a cafe terrace. There were plenty of tables, an endless supply of bottles, but no one to serve the drinks.

Then it dawned upon Paris that thousands of her cafe waiters, hotel servants and household workers were Germans. Of these many were spies, for a cafe waiter can hear more gossip than any other kind of employee. Hotel porters and room stewards have constant access to waste baskets.

But Germany never depended entirely upon Germans to do her work. Mata Hari was a German spy, and she was the former wife of a Dutch army officer without a drop of German blood in her veins. Hundreds of deserters from Allied armies turned spies for Germany. In the records in Berlin there are two classifications:

One, National spies, those belonging to Germany by birth or naturalization.

Two, "Traitor" spies, generally nationals of the country in which they work, but frequently neutrals.

Deserters Were Spies
It often was easy during the war to obtain traitor spies, for a deserter did not dare to return to his regiment, or to his home, for fear of being shot. Germany then offered him a salary and an easy task and used him until he was caught.

But in peace time, direct advertising methods were used. It was not unusual to pick up a paper anywhere in Europe and read:

TRoubles ROUTED;
GAINED 9 POUNDS

"I don't see how anyone could feel better than I do since taking Sargon," declared Mrs. Agnes Fortner.

MRS. AGNES FORTNER

Fortner, 814 W. 61 St., Los Angeles.

"My kidneys were irregular and my feet swollen something awful. Severe pains were all through my back, arms and legs, and I was so nervous and miserable, I couldn't sleep. I feel wonderful since taking Sargon and Sargon Pills. My bowels and kidneys are normal, the swelling and pains are overcome entirely, and I've already gained nine pounds."

During the summer vacations, Germany always sent a band of young spies over Europe, school boys and girls apparently on a holiday and carrying cameras. When the war broke out, Germany had all the photographs the staff colleges needed for instruction purposes.

Since the war all frontiers have been guarded and with rising costs, such activities by all governments have been curtailed. But the spies flourish and courts have had many cases of nationals becoming "traitor-spies" in the pay of foreign governments.

A French case is that of a lieutenant, who hid from French military justice in the Rhineland and entered Germany's pay, working through the famous economic and military spy center at Munster directed by Major Grodte. Through friends in the French army and in Paris, who did not suspect his deceit, he succeeded in obtaining valuable documents concerning the French army air service.

His French agents, including his mistress, were caught and are still in prison.

Late News From Orange And Nearby Towns

KINKO, NAMED CIRCUS CLOWN, RETURNS HOME

ORANGE, Feb. 24.—When Kinko the clown, returns to his native city of Orange, he becomes Glenn Sunbury, remembered by residents as the boy to whom the flaring lights of the circus beckoned with an allure which could not be resisted.

Sunbury is spending the winter with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Sunbury, of South Cypress street, the same street on which he played as a child and where still stand many of the barns and sheds which were used by himself and a group of playmates for show houses, where pins were the price of admission and where the boy, who was later to become one of the nation's most popular clowns, was to give his first performance.

A contortionist in show parlance is a "kinker" and Sunbury took this name for "Kinko" as he started in the show business as a contortionist when he ran away from home at the age of 13 with a carnival company which played the town. Two weeks later he returned to his home and his parents but the circus fever was in his blood and his spare moments from school and from his home duties were spent in perfecting the art of tying himself in a knot. There are those who remember when Sunbury learned the "barrel trick." Unfortunately the barrel the young lad selected near the old Whaley cafe still retained a nail toward one end and as Sunbury essayed a triumphant exit from the barrel the nail caught in his back and he was obliged to call lustily for help.

An old mattress back of the Orange fire hall furnished a place where tumbling acts were practiced, under the encouraging advice of William Vickers, truck driver, and the other firemen.

Twenty-three years ago Sunbury played in motion picture theaters in Orange and Santa Ana, when the theaters were glorified business houses hastily transformed to accommodate the new amusement. He remembers playing at the old Mirror theater on North Sycamore street, Santa Ana, and the Grand Electric in this city. Always a natural clown, Sunbury soon assumed the white mask and the gaudy garments of the circus jester, his contortion training standing him in good stead in his new work. Many of the stunts often seen in circuses were originated by Sunbury.

When he was traveling with the Al G. Barnes show, Sunbury originated a business of a lion act which is still being used, he says. He took a four months old cub and dressed as a Spanish senorita, in a satire on the real lion act. "Meatless day" in the World war came in for a good gag as Sunbury is very slender.

A town clown seldom makes a real clown, Sunbury says, as the clown must "click" when he appears before an audience. Why an act goes over or why it doesn't is as much of a mystery to him as to anyone else.

Roy, his son, is now six years old and his father hopes he will become a professional ball player. The Sunburys have been married 13 years. The three will leave shortly to join the Hagenbeck-Wallace show in Chicago.

MISSIONARY IN CHINA WRITES OF YULE GIFTS

ORANGE, Feb. 24.—An interesting letter from Mrs. Alice Lewis was read at the meeting of the Alice Lewis guild last night, when members of the organization met at the First Presbyterian church. The letters were read at the business session which followed an evening spent in doing work for the Red Cross. Under the direction of Mrs. Robert Johnson, dresses for girls from two to 12 years of age were made.

Mrs. Lewis who is stationed at a mission school at Hong Kong, told of the disposal made of the articles which were in the Christmas box sent by the guild. She said that the coats had been given to some of those in the leper colony near Hong Kong, and the quilts to old women of the city. The women, who prefer quilts and comforts of dark brown and black, were pleased to receive bedding made of these colors, the writer said.

The children of the school were presented with the tooth brushes, soap, pencils and crayons, sent by the local guild. Mrs. Lewis visited in Orange three years ago while on her way to the Chat and Sew club furnished the Alice Lewis guild to help her in her work.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Lewis' mother, Mrs. A. J. Hudson, of Walnut Creek, Calif.

Plans were made to pack an Easter box for Mrs. Lewis at the next meeting of the guild which will be held in the home of the president, Mrs. John J. Vernon, of Santiago avenue, March 9.

Those present last night were Mesdames James Smith, Enslay Campbell, J. T. McInnis, E. C. Frevert, Vern O. Ester, Arthur Spencer, Carl Pieter, John Powell, Vern Stockwell, John J. Vernon, J. C. Larimer and Miss Edna Case.

A letter was also read from Mrs. Lewis' mother, Mrs. A. J. Hudson, of Walnut Creek, Calif.

Mother of Four Babies

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings, 510 Johnson Street, Saginaw, Michigan.

POPULAR RADIO PAIR ON LACY TROTT PROGRAM

Having become a welcome feature of KREG broadcasts, since its inception one week ago last night, the Lacy and Trott program presented over this station will bring back to the microphone tonight Mildred Florence, violinist, and Eddie Watkins, with character sketches in song and readings.

Mildred Florence is a teacher of violin playing in Fullerton and made her first appearance over KREG last week. Watkins appeared on the same program sponsored by Lacy and Trott. He had entertained over KREG before.

The program will be on the air from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m. The Lacy Furniture store, 506 North Broadway, and H. R. Trott of the store's watch and clock department, have brought uniformly high class programs to KREG listeners and to tonight's broadcast will maintain the same high standard.

Each night during the Lacy and Trott broadcast, announcements of more than usual interest to listeners and shoppers are made. These announcements alone make it worth while to tune in on the program.

In addition, the sponsors have announced that they will give away two watches, an occasional chair and a porcelain kitchen clock. These gifts are on display in the window of the Lacy Furniture store, 506 North Broadway.

GREATNESS OF WASHINGTON IS TOLD BY MEANS

"For at least two reasons, February may well be called the greatest month in American history. It marks the birthdays of her two greatest sons—one the father of his country and the other the savior of his country—I speak of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln," J. W. Means, principal of the Tustin High school, declared in a speech given over KREG yesterday, by remote control from the Tustin school.

In his speech Means compared Washington to Lincoln and said, "To me, George Washington was the first American and even a more remarkable character than the great Lincoln. It was natural for Lincoln to champion the common people; he sprang from the lowliest. It was natural for him to speak their language—read their thoughts and express their ideas, for he was one of them; but for Washington, the born aristocrat, the polished gentleman, to voluntarily suffer the loathing of his social peers—to undergo the calumny heaped upon him by his former friends and neighbors—to live through the awful winter in Valley Forge, and the eight years of almost hopeless struggle for national independence was a test of character to challenge the greatest."

"Washington was born February 22, 1732—lacking only one year of being exactly 200 years ago. Even as a boy, George was powerful, with large, strong hands. He could run and jump and throw as could none of his companions. There is a tradition that he once threw a rock across the Rappahannock river. The story as it was told is that Washington threw a silver dollar across the river, but since the recent sharp rise in the cost of living and the small buying power of the dollar, the story has evidently been changed, because it would be hard to believe that anyone could make a dollar go that far."

"Probably Washington's favorite sport was breaking and riding spirited horses. Of course, you have all heard the story of how he cut down his father's favorite cherry tree, and the statement that he could not tell a lie. Possibly, some muck-making writer may try to dig up material to prove that this is just another story, but I for one, want to believe it implicitly. It is good for us to surround our national heroes with attributes that will appeal to our better natures, our slumbering ideals, and thus spur us as a people on to better and higher accomplishment."

"At 16, we find Washington leading a surveying party into the trackless forests beyond the Appalachian mountains—to contend with the hardship of nature and danger of hostile Indians for three years. At 19, he is placed in command of all the military forces of Virginia. His three years surveying and his command of the troops of Virginia did much to determine his character, make him self reliant, reserved, strong, a leader with a genius for order and method."

FLAHERTY TALKS ON WATER USAGE

R. D. Flaherty, executive secretary of the Orange County Fair bureau, spoke over KREG last night on the subject of underground water ownership. After pointing out the importance of water in this section, Flaherty discussed legal phases of the question.

In concluding he asked his listeners to answer for themselves the question: "Is it not time then that we, the people of Orange county, take every means of conserving our waters by preventing wastes by gun clubs, outfall sewage, excessive domestic and irrigation use and study the problem together to determine whether it is feasible for us to require stricter regulation of the drilling and use of underground water in the Santa Ana basin where the present draft now exceeds the average annual recharge?"

Dr. O. Lee Schattenburg, of Honolulu, has figured that the mathematical chances for twins are one in 87; for triplets, one in 7103; for quadruplets, one in 757,600 and for quintuplets, one in 31,600,000.

Metropolitan policyholders—including about one-fifth of the total populations of United States and Canada—have built up their reserves from millions into billions.

THE financial story below is a record of achievement by men and women who are planning to avert want or to build estates. You may admire their steadfastness of purpose last year under handicaps which tested courage.

These people—policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company—are building for their future. They would like to know what the future holds in store for them and for the country as a whole.

Let them, and other citizens, examine any chart of our country's unparalleled prosperity over the past hundred years. It appears, not merely as a jagged line, but as a series of towering steps which rise steadily onward and upward.

It is heartening now to recall that, after each depression, our country has always gone forward to greater heights of prosperity and better, sounder standards of living. Today this country has more riches and better facilities than ever before with which to commence her next great period of development.

A review of the financial history of the United States since it was founded in 1783 should turn any pessimist into an optimist.

The Metropolitan will gladly mail, free, a booklet, "The Development of Prosperity in America" telling of past ups and downs—and ups again—and how soon the "ups" followed.

Night Teams Adopt New Ball

CLAIM SMALLER SPHERE EASIER TO HIT, THROW

Major league magnates are not the only ones planning to experiment with new baseballs this summer.

National Night league clubs, the Santa Ana Stars among 'em, are going to try a new "union" during the coming season too.

But whereas the big leaguers are endeavoring to reduce the number of cheap home runs and extra base knocks by employing a "raised seam," local lunar loopers want to put a wee bit more kick in the game. They hope to encourage the home runs.

Rules committeemen of the National and American Night leagues, meeting in joint session at River side, officially adopted a slightly smaller ball for the 1931 season last night.

The new ball's circumference is 13 1/2 inches. The old "agate" measured 14 inches. The new ball may weigh 9 ounces but not less than 8 ounces. The old sphere weighed about 10 ounces.

Experienced night ball men believe the smaller, slightly lighter ball can be driven harder and farther than the old type which was used in the National league last season.

The 13 1/2-inch sphere was official in the American Night league last year and was used in the Santa Ana-Colton championship play-off in all games played at Colton. At that time Santa Ana players were enthusiastic about the sphere. They said it could be handled better by the infielders and worked no hardship on pitchers either. Joe Cornelius, the Santa Ana pitcher, had more success with the 13 1/2-inch ball than with the 14-inch sphere he had been using all summer.

Officials of the Orange County league, the high school organization, awaited the action of the committee with interest for the preps will use the 13 1/2-inch ball in their indoor baseball league which replaces the old regulation brand this season. The Orange league decided to await this meeting for the purpose of adopting the same ball that the night loopers will use.

With the rules committee meeting out of the way, George Peterkin, president of the National Night league, is expected to call a meeting soon at which schedules for the 1931 campaign will be adopted and franchises acted on.

"Eeny" Wilcox and Dean Collier of Santa Ana, Joe James of Huntington Beach and L. A. Aubuchon and W. B. Wentz of Garden Grove represented this district at the rules pow-wow.

CHAVEZ ON OLYMPIC BOUT CARD TONIGHT

Zenayde Chavez, young Santa Ana Mexican welterweight, gets a chance to peddle his fists before a big time crowd tonight when he fights the special event at the Los Angeles Olympic in support of the Ernie Schaefer-Dynamite Jackson, main event.

Chavez squares off with Sid Grigory, red-haired Long Beach 150-pounder, who used to be a frequent participant in bouts at Delhi. They recently met at Wilmington, traveling to a draw.

Another Santa Ana shows on an upturned card Saturdays, Cliff Burrier facing David Barren at the Main Street club.

Newport Beach Plans To Offer Site For U. S. Academy

ADVANTAGES OF SECTION LISTED BY CIVIC BODY

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 24.—Newport bay will be considered as a site for either a United States military or naval academy on the Pacific coast, according to action taken at a meeting yesterday of directors of the chamber.

Reports from Washington to the effect that the military academy now at West Point, N. Y., may be re-located at some other point, and that both military and naval academies of equal ranking with those now at West Point and Annapolis, Md., may be established on the Pacific coast, were brought to the attention of the directors by the chamber secretary, G. C. Macleod.

It will be recalled that when the matter of the selection of site for the navy dirigible site was being decided, a location at the head of Newport bay was among the two or three left in the running when Sunnyvale, near San Jose, was finally selected.

It was stated at yesterday's meeting of the Newport chamber that the Newport bay area would be even more advantageous as a military or naval academy site than as a dirigible base, and these advantages will be brought to the attention of the authorities and everything possible done to bring one or both of the academies here.

The matter was referred to a committee headed by Harry H. Williamson, former city councilman and an ex-navy man. Williamson said at the meeting that, judging from his travels and experiences while in the navy, Southern California would be an ideal area for an academy.

The newspaper dispatches said that a site for a military academy had been offered in the San Francisco bay area, also that suggestions for sites were now in order.

They went to Riverside, where they were married, the ceremony being witnessed by the sister of the groom.

The bride returned to Huntington Beach after the ceremony and informed her mother of her marriage. After receiving the parental blessing the young couple went to live at a home on the Irvine ranch the groom had prepared. The wedding was a complete surprise to the schoolmates of Mrs. Martin and to her family. The bride was born and raised in Huntington Beach and prior to her wedding resided with her mother at 517 California street.

BEACH C. OF C. BACKS WORK ON COAST HIGHWAY

NEWPORT BEACH, Feb. 24.—The transportation committee of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce will take up with the state highway authorities and others the question of straightening out and otherwise improving that section of the Coast highway between the Arches and Corona del Mar, it was decided at a meeting of the chamber directors yesterday.

The highway from Long Beach to Newport Beach is now practically all widened, an appropriation of $80,000 being in the new state highway budget for widening the bridge over the Santa Ana river between here and Huntington Beach, and plans are also being carried out to widen two short stretches in Huntington Beach.

Plans for continuing this widening toward Laguna Beach are now under way, and the Newport Harbor chamber is anxious that the curves in the section between the Arches crossing and Corona del Mar be eliminated as much as possible, that a suitable bridge be built over the bay which will take care of a large increase in vehicular traffic and possible water traffic in the future.

The directors decided to hold an open meeting at the city hall at 7:30 p. m., March 10, which it is hoped many members and others will attend.

As many as possible of the directors will also attend a meeting called by the city council for 7:30 Saturday evening of this week to discuss the matter of possible changes in the present city ordinances regarding same.

Arrangements for the program for the fourth annual collegiate carnival here during Easter week were left to the chamber's entertainment committee, headed by Steve Smith.

Tells Of Travels In South America At Rotary Lunch

ANAHEIM, Feb. 24.—Harry W. Lewis, of Santa Ana, was the featured speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary club in the Elks clubhouse yesterday.

Lewis has traveled extensively throughout the South American countries and it was of some of his experiences there that he spoke. He said that most of the political unrest in the South American countries was due to the fact that the people did not trust the public officials. Lewis declared that there was good reason for this as many men who have held high positions in governmental affairs had been dishonest.

Many of the South American countries have stopped immigration, Lewis declared, in an effort to solve the unemployment problem. Oscar W. Heyling, junior past president, presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, H. H. Benjamin. Carl F. Leonard was in charge of the program.

NEW WATER SUPPLY ASSURED HUNTINGTON BEACH CITIZENS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 24.—N. M. Launer, superintendent of the water company in Huntington Beach, reported at the meeting of the chamber of commerce at the Golden Bear cafe Monday noon that the company's new well on the Deller ranch, a mile west of the city limits, was a fine well, with an abundant flow of pure water.

The water company will now take title to the five acres as a water farm and will immediately connect the new well to the city mains, giving the consumers a new water supply. If necessary additional wells will be sunk. The old wells in the heart of the oil field which are now supplying city water will be abandoned.

The present water supply is unsatisfactory for drinking and a majority of water users in the city are not using the company water for drinking. The American States Water Service sought and has found a new supply which will be thoroughly satisfactory, it is stated.

PETITION FOR BEACH SCHOOL AVAILABLE SOON

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 24.—With separation of the Laguna school district from the Tustin union high school district approved by the board of supervisors, Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson and Superintendent of Public Instruction, Virgil Kersey, a petition for the establishing of a high school here is being drawn by William Menton of the district attorney's office. It is expected that this petition will be circulated at a general meeting tentatively set for March 13 at the school auditorium.

At that meeting it is expected that several questions regarding the location of the high school, the probable amount of bonds which it may be asked to be voted, and the size of the plot of land to be acquired will come before the voters. The petition will require signatures of 50 per cent of the heads of families in the district.

It has been ascertained that it will be possible to vote for trustees for the proposed high school and for the organization of the district at the same election, though no probable date for this is yet mentioned.

Two propositions as to location have been discussed. One is to convert the present grammar school into a high school, acquiring additional acreage. The other is to erect a new building for a high school in another place. Should the first idea prevail, the plan is to purchase land in the northern and southern ends of the city for the building of grammar schools.

The date which has been discussed for the general meeting is one which does not conflict with others of general interest and it is expected that a large number of citizens can be brought to the meeting. Superintendent Adkinson and Attorney Menton have promised to be present.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Overcome.

If you have catarrhal deafness or head noises go to McCoy's Drug Store or your druggist and get 1 oz. of Parment (double strength) and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucous stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has catarrhal deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. —Adv.

is winning
"Richfield Wins Again!"

THE slogan "Richfield Wins Again" has been for years a ringing challenge in the world of motor events.

That "Richfield is Winning Again" is even more significant and more important to western prosperity and to western industry. It signifies that Richfield is out after the greatest victory in its history.

It epitomizes the fighting spirit that built Richfield from a small marketer to one of the nation's greatest oil companies. Richfield is fighting hard . . . and it is fighting with the confidence born of the knowledge that it is offering to the motoring public its traditionally outstanding quality of product. And through its exceptional marketing facilities . . . exceptional service.

Richfield wants your business . . . not alone because it is such an important part of western industry and western prosperity . . . but because it knows that you cannot buy a better gasoline or motor oil.

ALLOTMENT OF FUNDS IS MADE IN SACRAMENTO

County authorities are anticipating the arrival this week of a check from the state amounting to $263,662, as the Orange county share of the semi-annual apportionment of state funds for schools. Announcement has been made by Vlerling Kersey, state superintendent of public instruction, that the apportionment has been made, based on the unit known as average daily attendance in public schools.

Of the total amount, $100,674 is to go to the elementary schools and $162,988 to the high schools in Orange county, the report from Sacramento states.

The first apportionment of money for the current school year was made last September, according to Leslie Eckel, chief deputy in the office of County Auditor W. T. Lambert, when a total of $456,477.16 was received from the state. This was Orange county's share from a total state apportionment of $16,124,986.86 which was distributed to the various school districts of the state at that time. The total amount to be distributed in the state this month is $3,846,548.58.

The remittance to Orange county last fall was divided as follows: elementary schools, $400,979; high schools, $30,070; junior colleges, $25,428.16. No apportionment was made to junior college districts with the present distribution of funds, according to State Superintendent Kersey, because of the fact that the state junior college fund is depleted. He advised that there is still owing to junior college districts an apportionment of $29.57 for each unit of average daily attendance, which he explained cannot be paid until additional money is received in the fund.

Orange county has a total average daily attendance in its elementary schools of 17,298. In the high schools this figure runs 5369. Respective figures for the state totals are 660,919 and 228,988.

Six New England states, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, have seven per cent of the total population of the country.

SPEEDIEST TANK

Death on wheels in a speedier design than anything ever built before was demonstrated for the U. S. Army at Rahway, N. J., the other day when this 10-ton steel tank was put through its paces. The tank—which carries a one-pounder cannon and a .45-caliber machine gun—uses both the caterpillar chain and pneumatic tires. Using the chain, it did 45 miles an hour over a rough field; using the tires, it did 104 miles an hour on a paved highway. It is shown here with its designer, J. Walter Christie.

GLENN MARTIN TALKS BEFORE BUSINESS MEN

Speaking to about 60 members of the Chamber of Commerce, Glenn Martin, who has gained outstanding success as a manufacturer of airplanes, and who got his early training in the flying game in Santa Ana, gave an outline of his struggles and achievements at a dinner given in his honor at Ketter's cafe yesterday noon.

W. C. Jerome, president of the Chamber of Commerce, introduced Martin, and told something of his early experiences in Santa Ana while he was learning the flying game.

Martin began his talk with a brief outline of man's achievements in transportation and communication. He told of the beginnings of commerce when man first began to pack goods on his back in an effort to trade them for things he desired more.

After the train had become an established institution, man began to make real progress, Martin declared, but it was with the advent of the automobile that man first began to be able to transport goods without being tied down to a track. The greatest freedom, however, came when men began to fly, and goods could be transported in any direction without the restriction of staying in a set route.

Martin told the gathering of the troubles he encountered when he built his first plane in Santa Ana. Weight was a matter of paramount importance in those days, he said, and even with the heaviness of the old craft, they were very frail compared to modern planes. This first plane that he built in 1909 could carry only enough fuel to fly for 10 minutes.

"Upon entering business fields," Martin declared, "I had to learn much more than flying and building planes. I had to learn the secret of economic balance. This present world depression has taught me many things. I believe that new inventions will help solve the unemployment problem of the world by furnishing more men with employment in manufacturing the new machines."

In speaking of business conditions

ALFALFA BILL'S LUNCH

Declaring that he had too much work to do to take the time to go to a restaurant to eat at noon, Governor W. H. "Alfalfa Bill" Murray of Oklahoma surprised attaches at the Oklahoma City state house by bringing his lunch with him in a paper bag. He is shown here at his desk, with the bag of lunch beside him.

tions at both his Baltimore and Cleveland plants, Martin said: "I have more than three times the prospective business now than I bargained for three years ago. At the present time I have 1600 men employed at my Baltimore plant, and before two years have passed I expect to have 11,000. We are contracting many foreign countries who want both military and commercial planes.

"For the past 11 years we have been building combat planes and bombers for the United States army. All of the plans carried by the Saratoga and the Lexington are of our manufacture. We are now building a new diving bomber that can compete in speed and flexibility with any scout or combat plane. They can reach a speed of 370 miles an hour on a dive, while carrying a 1000-pound bomb and two men. Production will be started immediately on a new flying boat which will be capable of operation independent of the United States fleet."

Martin spoke very seriously of the danger of driving a car on a highway compared to flying in a plane, giving figures to prove that the percentage of deaths is much higher in cars than in planes.

In closing he invited anyone in Santa Ana who should happen to come East, to visit him at his Baltimore plant.

The National Capitol at Washington is the only building in the United States over which the American flag is officially flown continuously, both day and night, throughout the year.

CHIMES, ORGAN INSTALLED AT LOCAL CHURCH

New musical equipment, consisting of Deagan cathedral chimes and a vox humana stop organ, which recently have been installed at the United Presbyterian church, were dedicated at the morning service last Sunday.

The occasion included an impressive ceremony in which the chimes and organ were dedicated "to the memory of the true and loyal souls into whose labor we have entered; to beautify the service of worship; to calling youth to the house of prayer; to the comfort of the distressed; to the ennobling of life; and to the glory of God and the Lord Jesus Christ." The dedication service also included prayer, praise services by the congregation, a short address by the Rev. W. H. McPeak, pastor, special music by the church quartet and numbers on the new organ and chimes.

The equipment was secured through the efforts and plans of Mrs. Will J. Lindsay, according to the pastor, who characterized Mrs. Lindsay as one of the most efficient workers among the young people of the congregation. It was installed by the Morton Organ company, of Van Nuys.

Song-Bird Imitations Offer Intriguing Ebell Program

Blessed with a strange and unusual gift which he has developed through years of patient study, Charles Crawford Gort yesterday demonstrated his ability to simulate bird notes so perfectly as to deceive the birds themselves, when he appeared as the final February program feature of Santa Ana Ebell society.

It was quite the most unique program the society has offered this year, and exceeded any expectations which members may have had, for the manner in which information and music were blended, gave those in the audience, a most interesting and valuable hour. For Charles Crawford Gort is a nature lover and a student, and the results of his wood and trips were presented in a fascinating manner. He proved to be a singularly quiet speaker, never dramatizing a single incident, but relating his experiences and observations in so calm a manner that everyone sat absorbed by the quiet narrative.

His bird paintings, most of which were his own work, were equally interesting, and were correct in color and form in addition to being artistic and lovely. Pointing out that the laws of aesthetics govern bird songs just as they do other designs in nature, he declared that each song is in itself, a symmetrical and beautiful design. Elemental sounds are combined to produce these songs, he explained, and analyzed the various notes to their basic notes, showing the semblance of melody. Then he produced the same notes exactly as they are warbled by the bird in question, showing how the trills and exquisite little grace notes are added to the basic melody, to make the familiar and beautiful song.

Some of his experiences while imitating birds in the open, were recounted, perhaps the most entertaining being the time that he was presented with a nice green worm by a mother bird who mistook his hunger call for that of her own nestling.

The robin, thrasher, red-winged blackbird, mockingbird, mourning dove, bob-white, ruffed grouse, catbird, sparrow, spotted sanager, bluejay, willow thrush and scarlet tanager were some of the birds described, and as a conclusion, he cited the two sweetest songsters in nature, the meadowlark, whose variations in theme were illustrated, and the "beautiful, serene evening hymn" of the hermit thrush.

After a few business matters considered by the clubwomen in the short session conducted by Mrs. Robert G. Tutill in advance of her introduction of the speaker. These included announcement of convention dates. The county federation will be April 24 in Fullerton; the state will be April 22 in Fresno and the Biennial will be held in Phoenix, Ariz., April 29 to May 2.

The production of "Outward Bound" by a Santa Ana cast, was announced for the nights of March 6 and 7, in the clubhouse auditorium. Mrs. Emory D. White of the finance committee, spoke of the success of the Volunteer luncheons which have added over $200 to the treasury already, with a number more to come. She also spoke of the treat in store on the night of March 13, when a dinner will be given in the clubhouse, and Ingalls Fletcher of San Francisco, a sister of Mrs. Lloyd Chenoweth, will review four important travel books.

Mrs. Fletcher's poems on an African theme, provided one of the most interesting programs ever given before the clubwomen.

Ebell Day Nursery committee has abandoned plans for its usual March rummage sale and instead will receive donations of clothing to be distributed at the nursery itself.

Following these different announcements and the afternoon program, clubwomen assembled in the peacock room where Mrs. Carl Mock and the public affairs committee of which she is chairman, presided at their annual benefit tea for the student loan fund. Members of the Spinners' organization of Santa Ana junior college assisted, and it was a charming sight to see the young girls of the organization take the initiative in serving. All were in smart afternoon gowns and their poised and self-possession quite equalled that of the clubwomen whom they served.

Tables were spread with pretty linens, and each bore, in addition to its tea service, a pastel-hued vase filled with daffodils. Miss Marian Parsons, in wearing brown printed georgette; Miss Betty Maloney in georgette rose and green georgette, and Miss Margery Adams in green flowered georgette, presided at the three tables, while assisting were the Misses Grace Marcher, Phyllis O'Connor, Ada Marie Hendrickson and Mary Todd Tate.

Hostess Trio Presides At Enjoyable Bridge Sessions

Mrs. Jappa Heck, Miss June Beshears and Mrs. Mildred Bolton formed a hospitable trio who last night entertained at a bridge party of pretty spring-time appointments in the home of Mrs. Heck, 1817 North Garnsey street.

Clusters of purple iris blooms, dewy and fragrant, were used throughout the home, while decorative details of the bridge games introduced the patriotic motif in recognition of Washington's birthday. In the ensuing contest, Mrs. Margaret Hurlburt scored high. Miss Catherine Stevens, second high, and Miss Fern Smith, low. Each was presented a pretty gift in patriotic wrappings.

For their appetizing refreshment course the hostesses arranged the card tables with dainty linens, centering each with clusters of cherries.

Sharing the hospitality were Mrs. Heck, Mrs. Bolton and Miss Beshears, and their guests, Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Mansfield of Fullerton; Mrs. Gertrude Bryant of Anaheim; Mrs. Margaret Scott of Seattle; Mrs. Fern Smith, Miss Catherine Stevens, Miss Florence McQueen, Miss Glenn Young, Mrs. Edna Holbrook, Mrs. Nettie Phelps, Mrs. Margaret Hurlburt and Mrs. Ruth Darnell.

Evening of Bridge Is Enjoyed In Reyer Home

Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred Reyer entertained members of their bridge club Friday evening in their home at 2324 North Broadway. Bouquets of poinsettias formed a floral setting for the games of the evening. When scores were added it was found that Mrs. George Mull and Henry Probst held high honors, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bain were consoled.

Late in the evening Mrs. Reyer, assisted by her daughter, Miss Betty Reyer, served an appetizing refreshment course. Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Capelli and son, Robert, of Denver, Colo. Members present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Reyer, and Miss Betty Reyer, were Messrs. and Mesdames Henry Probst, George Mull, Harry Rhinehart, H. E. Finney and Ray Dietrich.

Nine presidents of the United States attended no colleges.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Mixing Fruit Salad

Home-makers are constantly admonished to see that every member of the family has some sort of fruit for breakfast, preferably uncooked. That is all right as far as it goes, but just try and get a boy or girl who dresses for an 8:30 a. m. class, to take time to eat anything that has to be dug out of a shell . . . one dig, then the fruit is squeezed and the juice spatters the eater and wall impartially.

Like the "daily dozen," what is wrong with having both exercise and fresh fruit at some more reasonable hour? Why not serve a generous plate of fruit salad for a salad-dessert for dinner, or make the fruit salad the main portion of the meal, serving with it hot rolls, muffins, pop-overs, or thin buttered toast, with cup custard for dessert?

I like to mix my fruit salad a little differently than the book specifies. Whatever I decide to use in the fruit salad—sliced oranges, grapefruit sections, cubed apple, pineapple and the inevitable and necessary banana—are all made ready. Lettuce leaves are laid on the plates and the rest of the meal waits on the salad.

The mixing is achieved by slicing the banana onto the lettuce, then the cubed apple, sections of grapefruit, laid out in wheel-spoke fashion, with cubes of pineapple and orange to make the top. The same creamy French dressing, discussed yesterday, is poured over the fruit, and the family is warned to "stand by."

TODAY'S RECIPE

Casserole Lamb Stew

- 2 pounds lamb shoulder
- 10 very small boiled onions
- 1 bunch small carrots
- 3 potatoes
- 1 cup sieved tomatoes
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Salt and pepper to taste

Bacon fat to brown meat

Have the meat cut in inch cubes, dredge them with flour and brown in hot bacon fat. Transfer to a covered casserole and brown

the small boiling onions in the fat, then arrange them over the meat, cover with water, and salt, pepper and a bit of bay leaf, cover and bake in a slow oven for two hours.

Prepare the carrots by cutting into long thin sections, parboil

and add to the stew to cook for 15 minutes before the cubed and parboiled potatoes are added. As soon as the vegetables are cooked, add the tomato juice, heated and thickened with flour, to make a thin gravy when mixed with the casserole. The Worcestershire is added just before serving.

Personally, I do not like potatoes in my lamb casserole, so they are left out and flaky boiled rice is served with the casserole.

...

The recipe given makes a casserole large enough to serve four or five hungry people. Nothing further is needed except a nice salad and a simple dessert to complete the meal. Why not strawberry rhubarb? (See next Saturday's column for directions for baking rhubarb a different way).

For each person served, the calories will total a little over 700.

Sweetbreads are very cheap right now. Look for the nicest way to serve them, tomorrow, and directions for preparing them.

Fifty-Fifty Club Has Smart Dinner Dance In Los Angeles

Marked by charm and friendliness in every detail, the third, and without doubt, most successful event in the history of the 50-50 club, exclusive social organization formed recently at San Clemente, was held Saturday evening when members assembled at the Jonathan club in Los Angeles for a formal dinner-dance at which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nolan of Los Angeles presided as patron and patroness.

A color theme in tones of violet prevailed in all appointments which were planned by Al Fernandez, organizer of the club. Tables were festooned with orchid sweet peas, while tall orchid tapers and clever dance programs further expressed the decorative scheme.

Dancing was enjoyed between courses and following dinner, when Hal Warner of San Clemente, presiding as master of ceremonies, proposed toasts to the host and hostess of the evening and to Mr. Fernandez and made introductions in informal fashion.

Music was furnished by Billy Heger's orchestra from Fullerton. At the close of the evening, announcement was made that the club's next party will be held at San Clemente Country club late in March.

Those attending Saturday night's affair were Mr. and Mrs. Fred May, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Roper, Dr. and Mrs. Karl Loerch, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Tubbs, Miss Lee Fernandez, Miss Corinne Pennington, Miss Alice Forney, Mr. and Mrs. James Utt, Messrs. Al Fernandez and "Babe" Barker, of this city; Dr. and Mrs. Albert Colby, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kenyon, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Audridge, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lytel, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Fox, Mrs. Betty Cowles, Edward Hunting, Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Martin, Lawrence Mitchell, Anaheim; Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Kahen, Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Trickey, Huntington Beach; Miss Edna Mae Thompson, Harl Crockett, Altadena; Miss Virginia Hurdman, Jack Royalty and Hal Warner, San Clemente; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Merwin Wagner, Placentia; Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Ingram, Long Beach; John Dutcher and Ralph Van Wagner, Pasadena; Miss Joan Gaylord, New York City; Miss Lillian Woodward, Brea; and Miss Louise Weisel, La Habra Heights.

Luncheon Held In Costa Mesa Home

Fragrant freesias and lilies decked the home of Mrs. M. O. Wells in Costa Mesa recently when she entertained members of her club at luncheon. Following the appetizing repast, several games of cards were enjoyed. When scores were added it was found that Mrs. Hulda Yackel held high score, while Mrs. H. O. Garlock was consoled.

Members present, other than Mrs. Wells, were Mrs. Albert Patton of Costa Mesa, Mrs. T. B. McMullen, Mrs. Alvin McMullen, Mrs. Hulda Yackel, Mrs. Herman Smith, Mrs. Florence Hicks and Mrs. H. O. Garlock, of this city. Guests were Mrs. Ishmel of Kansas, Mrs. Mathews of Tustin, and Mrs. Lillard and Mrs. Randal of Costa Mesa.

'ILLEGIT' SHOWING AT FOX BROADWAY

Barbara Stanwyck digs herself a niche in Hollywood's hall of fame, in the role of Anne Vincent, a modern girl with unusual theories of love and marriage in "Illicit," which opened Sunday at the Fox Broadway theater and which closes here today.

The picture contains an unusually prominent cast, with James Rennie as the male lead, Charles Butterworth, Joan Blondell, Natalie Moorhead, Ricardo Cortez and Claude Gillingwater.

"Illicit" is a sophisticated story of a girl who lives for love rather than marriage, but who is talked into marriage against her will and does marry the man of her choice, only to find that marriage to her was not as sweet as love outside marriage.

She loses her husband because of her theories, but in the end the plot rights itself to the satisfaction of the audience. "Illicit" handles a story that is strictly modern and answers the question, "Does marriage throttle love?"

"FINN AND HATTIE" WELL LIKED HERE

Leon Errol and Zazu Pitts are advertised as the big stars of the Paramount picture, "Finn and Hattie," which opened at the Fox West Coast theater last night, but it's little Mitzi Green who runs away with the show.

A farce comedy that contains more laughs than "Min and Bill," and which sees two of screenland's greatest children actors, Miss Green and Jackie Searl, in a series of wild exploits that will appear funny even to the groughest, "Finn and Hattie" is real entertainment.

Of course, Errol and Pitts are very much in the picture, but it's the "kids" who keep the audience howling with glee. The plot of the story is nothing in particular. It is built around "Mr. Haddock" who makes his money and decides to take the family to Paris to give them a good time. Many of the scenes are taken on the boat going over where Lilyan Tashman, in a vampire role, attempts to extort cash from Errol by playing up to his "handsome" face. Mitzi looks after her father pretty well when he gets in wrong, however. Miss Pitts has the usual type of

BYRD'S SOUTH POLE FILM AGAIN HERE

"With Byrd at the South Pole," epic picture made by the Byrd expedition returns once more to Santa Ana. It has been in such demand on two other occasions that it showed here that the Walker State theater has booked it again.

The film opens a three-day engagement at the Walker State theater, closing Thursday night.

A remarkable film, all taken in the country around Little America, its drama is real, its plot one of the most interesting because it centers around the brave Americans who made the trip showing their daily life of months in the ice laden country. Those who have not seen "With Byrd at the South Pole" have missed a real treat.

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

A Lot of Difference

The street car covered lots of ground. In fact, it traveled all around Pretoria. The Times thought the city were nice. And when the car came to a stop, wee Clowny said, "I have to hop off to the ground. I'd like to make this same street car ride twice."

"Not now," replied the Travel Man. "Some other day, perhaps, you can, but now we want to find a place to eat a bit of lunch. An open-air cafe is near. Let's try it while we're staying here." The Times were hungry, so they favored this fine lunch.

About a half hour later they decided they would like to play around out in the open air. The Travel Man then scratched his head and said, "Where can we go? The Travel Man then scratched his head and said, 'Just follow me. We'll visit at a good spot that I know.'"

They hiked along a narrow street and smiled at natives they would meet. Soon Copy cried, "Oh, look ahead! We're coming to a park. I hope they have some swings, 'cause I would like to swing up to the sky." And then the Travel Man stopped short and to the bunch he said, "Hark!"

A real loud snorting filled the air and Scooty cried, "Look over there. An elephant is calling us. I'll bet he's hungry, too." They ran to where the elephant was and he seemed mighty pleased, because the Times started feeding him, a kindly thing to do.

They'd purchased peanuts at a store and now they got a mighty roar just watching Mister Elephant reach out and grab them quick. His lumber trunk swung to and fro. How he could make the peanuts go. "The way he grabs them," Clowny cried, "is quite a clever trick."

Missing Letter Links

RULES

1. In playing golf on the Missing Letter Links the object is to change one word to another in a given number of strokes which is par. For example, to go from TEE to PIN in three strokes sounds hard but isn't: TEE-TIE-PIE-PIN. It's probably more difficult on a real course.

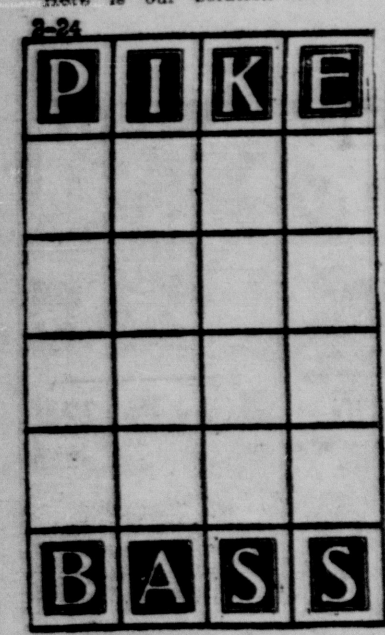

2. Change but one letter at a time and be sure the word you have used is one in good usage.

3. The order of the letters cannot be changed.

PIKE to BASS — The PIKE and BASS are biting on the letter links course today. Cast a long drive, putt three times and you have your par four.

APPRECIATED

CLARION, Pa.—The more you do for some people, the less they seem to appreciate it. But not so with a person whom Mrs. Neely befriended some years ago. Mrs. Neely has been receiving periodical gifts of valuable jewelry in her mail box with a letter from the anonymous donor to the effect that she is a person whom Mrs. Neely had helped when she was a girl.

RESEARCH WINS HONOR AWARD FROM ACADEMY

NEW YORK, (I.N.S.)—The 1930 New York Academy of Medicine gold medal has been awarded to Dr. David Marine, assistant professor of pathology at Columbia university, and director of laboratories in the Montefiore hospital, for his original researches into the structure, functions, and diseases of the thyroid gland.

Dr. Marine was one of the first to investigate thoroughly the relation of iodine to the structure and functions of the thyroid gland. In the course of his work, he investigated goiter in most of the domestic animals, as well as in fish.

On the basis of his experiences in the control of goiter in animals, Dr. Marine, in co-operation with Dr. Kimball instituted the first large scale attempt to prevent simple goiter in man.

This epoch-making experiment was carried out in Akron, Ohio, in 1917. In this city, 57 per cent of school girls in the second decade of life were found to suffer from simple goiter. By the feeding of minute quantities of iodine to the susceptible population, the prevalence of simple goiter was markedly reduced.

The prevalence of goiter means much more than the eradication of an unsightly deformity. It contributes, in addition, to the control of a number of physical and mental deformities such as cretinism, mutism and iodine, which are in some manner related to the normal functioning of the thyroid gland. Its functions and diseases is the best known among the glands of internal secretion and this is largely due to the effort of Dr. David Marine.

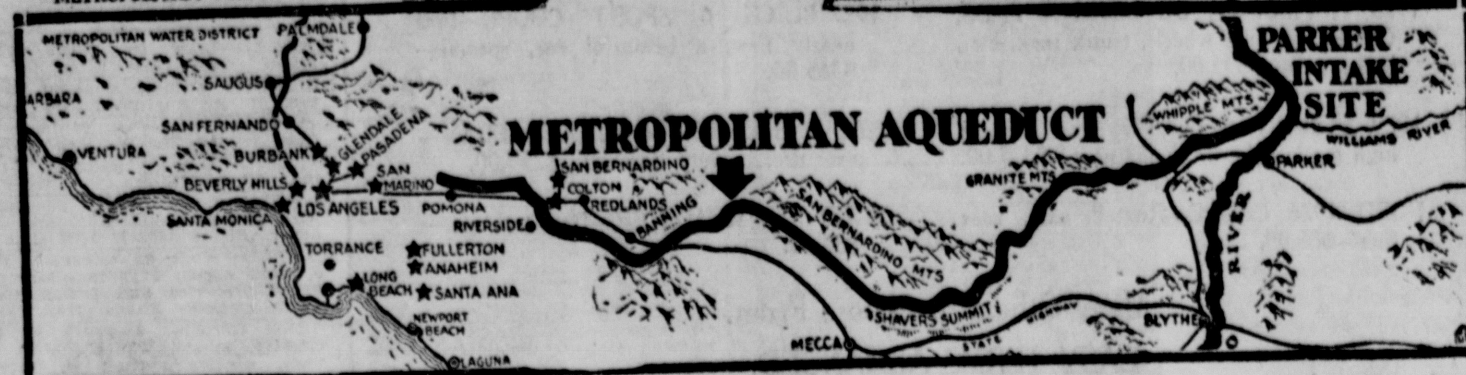

Dr. Marine was born in Whiteleysburg, Maryland, on September 20, 1880. In 1900 he received the degree of B. A. from Western Maryland college, and that of M. A. in 1907, having graduated in the meantime from Johns Hopkins in 1905 with the degree of M. D.

He was resident pathologist at the Lakeside hospital in Cleveland from 1905 to 1907, instructor in pathology in Western Reserve university in 1907 and 1908, and instructor, assistant professor, and associate professor of experimental medicine at the same institution from 1908 to 1920. In 1920 he came to Columbia university where he has since remained as assistant professor of pathology, acting at the same time as director of laboratories in the Montefiore hospital. During the war he served as captain, major and lieutenant colonel in the medical corps, U.S.A.

Metropolitan Aqueduct Preliminary Work Rapidly Progressing Along Parker Route

Chief Engineer Frank E. Weymouth
METROPOLITAN WATER DISTRICT

Aqueduct route up to point where feeder lines to cities in District may connect with main system. (Above) One of the field engineers at work on Aqueduct route. (Inset, right) View of Colorado River at Parker intake site. Stars on map indicate cities in District.

Out along a far-flung line of operations extending across mountains and desert country a distance of 250 miles or more—field engineers with the Metropolitan Water District are pushing forward the exacting task of establishing the precise location of the aqueduct that will bring water from the Colorado River to the cities in the Metropolitan District.

Under the direction of Chief Engineer Frank E. Weymouth, the engineering forces of the District now are concentrating their efforts on the Parker route—the line officially selected by the Metropolitan District board of directors as the most practicable and economical of all routes suggested.

With field headquarters located at Beaumont on the San Geronimo

Pass, Chief Engineer Weymouth is covering every section of the line from the intake at Upper Parker Canyon on the river to the several possible reservoir sites in the vicinity of the cities to be served.

Chief Field Engineer J. B. Bond, one of Weymouth's chief assistants, is in charge of field work. The work now going forward, it was explained, is that of establishing the exact grades and lines to be followed by the aqueduct throughout the 252 miles of its length. These locations are being established along the general Parker route, selected by the District Board upon the recommendation of Chief Engineer Weymouth and an Engineering Board of Review composed of three other internationally famous engineers.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FRATERNAL HOUSEHOLD

Brides' Chapel Chosen For Pretty Wedding Ceremony

Amidst the peace and quiet of Sunday afternoon in the pretty bride's chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Margaret Amelia Brandebury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brandebury of 824 North Sycamore street, and Wade Tilden Bandy Jr., exchanged wedding vows. Dr. George Warner, pastor of the church, officiated during the quiet ceremony.

Miss Brandebury wore an afternoon frock of desert gold and carried a bouquet of yellow freesias and maidenhair fern. She was attended by Miss Grace Marcher and Mrs. J. H. Stucker both wearing informal afternoon dresses in pastel shades. Mr. Bandy was assisted by J. H. Stucker as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony the newlyweds left on their honeymoon, leaving their friends guessing as to their destination. For her going-away costume the new Mrs. Bandy chose a wine colored ensemble with blonde accessories completed with a short fur jacket. On their return they will make their home in Corona.

Mr. Bandy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bandy of Corona and is a graduate of Corona high school, later attending the University of Southern California. He is now in business in Corona. His bride attended Santa Ana high school and junior college.

Present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brandebury, F. W. Brandebury, William Brandebury, Mrs. Charles Marcher, Miss Grace Marcher, Miss Myra Getty, Miss Myrtle Ziegler, James Betty and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Stucker.

Surprise Party Is Given to Honor Mrs. Carnahan

Mrs. Paul Carnahan returned Friday from San Francisco, where she spent the past month, and Saturday evening she was incentive for a delightful surprise party given in her home at 501 East Walnut street by her daughter, Mrs. Leon Luckie.

Guests were members of a little club, and soon after their arrival checking was enjoyed. With the checking of tables it was found that Mrs. Fred Cole and Mrs. J. A. Crawford held high and low scores. Mrs. Luckie served a dainty refreshments course.

Those present, other than Mrs. Carnahan and Mrs. Luckie, were Mesdames O. K. Carr, John Gould, Maude Swarthout, Fred Cole, Roy Ivins and J. A. Crawford.

Fraternal Aid Union

Members of the Fraternal Aid Union had an evening of unusually good things at their last regular meeting. The activities started with the appearance at 7:30 of a gloe club of girls from Frances E. Willard junior high school who gave a number of choruses, accompanied on the piano by Miss Bettie Lehnhardt. The choruses were well received and heartily applauded. The voices were well balanced and blended, and the ensemble work showed the result of careful training. Following the singing was a group of violin numbers by Miss Valerie Demetree, which showed splendid talent and study.

The presence of the girls had been secured through the courtesy of Mrs. Jo Schaffer, chairman of the evening, and was a surprise to the members. A business meeting followed during which plans were laid for an extension campaign for members.

After adjournment a laughable skit was presented by Mrs. Nettie Adkins, who, assisted by her "maid," Mrs. Georgia Mills, attempted to entertain six of her boy friends, who by an unfortunate coincidence all called on her on the same evening. When a new arrival was announced, the one being entertained was draped with robes and rugs and transformed into some article of parlor furniture until the room was full of animated tables, hat racks and lounges. When there was no further room for concealment, the climax created side-splitting laughter. The "boy friends" proved to be Miss Marcia Rabbit, Mrs. Mary Jarrett, Mrs. Claude Jasper, Mrs. Addie Robertson, Mrs. Nellie Smith and Mrs. Frank Harris.

Another interesting feature developed when it was announced that Dora McCall, a member of the entertainment committee for the evening, had become a bride since the last meeting and was now Mrs. Morrow, wife of Clinton Morrow of this city. When the bride and groom were ushered into the room for congratulations, they found themselves confronted with two tables piled high with useful and ornamental articles which the members had showered on the bride.

Mrs. Jo Schaffer was ably assisted by Nettie Adkins on the committee and they furnished George Washington refreshments and decorations in the dining room. Cherry trees, clusters of cherries and figures of Washington in characteristic poses, including the red boat in motion across the Delaware, made the scene unusually realistic. And to make it more so, they served home-made cherry pie, furnished by the bride of the evening, Mrs. Morrow.

BREATH HIS FREEDOM

MAYS LANDING, N. J.—Fred L. Markham doesn't have halitosis, but on his breath depends his freedom. He was arraigned recently on a charge of assault and battery on his wife while drunk and the judge decreed that if his wife even smells liquor on his breath in the future he will have to serve three years in the state's prison.

Former Schoolmates Have Reunion In Schroeder Home

Several guests who formerly were schoolmates of Mrs. Otto Schroeder in Minnesota shared the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder recently when the latter entertained in their home at 1402 West Fourth street. All of those present arrived from the eastern states early in the winter to spend several months in Long Beach.

At noon a tempting turkey luncheon was served buffet style, with bouquets of sweet peas forming colorful decorations. Remaining hours were spent socially, and early in the evening the hosts served a delectable dinner.

Those present, other than Mr. and Mrs. Schroeder were Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Barck, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Holmerson, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Bloom and daughter, Lavinia, Mr. and Mrs. I. J. Darling and daughter, Emma-May, and Mrs. C. A. Victor.

Past Noble Grands Are Entertained By Curtis

A George Washington party of charming appointment was that held the past week when Mrs. E. R. Curtis entertained members of the Past Noble Grands' association of Sycamore Rebekahs in her home at 222 South Main street.

Luncheon was served early at one large table and four smaller one, lighted with slender tapers in the patriotic colors and decked with bouquets of sweet peas. Colorful hats and nut cups were used, and contributing a festive air to the occasion were the red, white and blue streamers festooned from table to another.

During the short business session it was announced that Mrs. Foreman will be hostess at the next meeting to be held March 19. The remaining time was devoted to bridge.

Birthday Celebration Is Happy Event In Annis Home

Complimenting the birthday anniversary of I. D. Annis, was an enjoyable chicken dinner at which Mrs. Annis presided Sunday in their home at 605 Cypress street. The menu was served at 1 o'clock at a prettily appointed table, with a lovely birthday cake which had been baked by Mrs. D. L. Beal, daughter of the hosts, as a special feature of the last course.

Bouquets of sweet peas decked the home where afternoon hours were spent with music and conversation. Mrs. Annis was the recipient of several nice gifts.

Covers at dinner were laid for Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Annis, honor guest and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Beal of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Larimer and son Frank, of San Bernardino; and Harry Christie, an old friend from Minnesota. Mrs. Beal and Mrs. Larimer are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Annis.

MONARCHY IS RULED BY U.S. NAVY CAPTAIN

BY WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I.N.S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The most absolute monarchy in the world flourishes under the auspices of the United States of America. It is a benevolent government, so successful that many of the "subjects" prefer it to a representative rule.

The monarchy is American Samoa, a group of islands lying in the mid-Pacific some 2000 miles below Hawaii and within a few degrees of the equator.

The government of Samoa is unique. Its 10,000 people, governed by the United States, are still not a part of it. Its ruler is usually a U. S. navy captain, and he has the power of life and death.

All this will be changed, if a congressional commission, headed by Senator Bingham (R) of Connecticut, has its way. The commission visited Samoa during the autumn and is recommending that congress set up a representative form of government.

The commissioners found much to praise in the unique method of ruling people under the American flag.

The navy captain is governor of the islands. His "term of office," by navy orders, is 13 months. He can make a law in the morning and send a native to jail in the afternoon for violating it, although the native never heard of the law. His command even is law.

This despotism nevertheless has been benevolent, say the commissioners. In 20 years of this kind of rule, they say, but one navy captain has given an unsatisfactory administration.

But the younger element of Samoa, having heard of the spread of democracy, want a hand in their own affairs. Some of the older chiefs are willing for the present regime to continue.

Their life is communal, with the family or clan as the unit. The family, or clan, chooses a representative to sit on the chiefs' advisory council. There is the "fono," or native legislative body. But it is merely advisory to the monarchial navy captain.

The navy has adopted a policy of keeping Samoans for the natives. It does not permit those with white blood to own land. It freely exiles unwelcome visitors. The American commissioners found an unusual custom in Samoa. No food may be left at a chief's dinner. Frequently the food placed before an individual consists of a whole chicken, a whole pigeon, a whole fish and vegetables or similar dishes. Sometimes a jig is added. Unable to eat all the food the guests, have retainers stand behind them with baskets. And the uneaten food goes into the baskets—to be eaten at home.

JOHN ELLIOTT IS CALLED ON MONDAY

Funeral services for John Elliott, 33, who died yesterday afternoon at his home at 1911 North Main street, will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow from the Harrell and Brown Funeral home. Mr. Elliott passed away after an illness of several years' duration. He had been a resident of Santa Ana for 30 years, coming here in 1901 from Iowa.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emily Elliott, one daughter, Emily Elliott, and one sister, Mrs. Mary Dahn, of Waterloo, Ia.

THOUSANDS IN GOLD FOUND BY PIONEER'S HEIR

SAGUACHE, Colorado (UP)—Buried Treasures! Cans full of gold pieces! Hundreds of dollars, thousands of dollars, perhaps millions. This was not fiction here, Saguache was thrown into a fever of excitement over the discovery of a bona-fide treasure.

Mrs. Drucille O'Neil, widow of the late Johnny O'Neil, wealthy pioneer sportsman, made the discovery while cleaning out an oil house.

Johnny O'Neil, it is said, was well supplied with the world's goods. He was reported to have a substantial amount of gold when he died Feb. 25, 1927. He made no mention of his gold on his deathbed.

Although he hadn't mentioned it, no one doubted the existence of a vast fortune in gold somewhere about the O'Neil place. For months relatives dug and hunted all over the O'Neil place. After weary months of failure they gave up.

"It's there somewhere," persisted the old-timers, but the younger generation of San Luis valley smiled.

"Just a myth," they said. "Another old settler's story, like the prospector's lost mine."

Gradually old-timers ceased to talk about Johnny O'Neil's gold. And then one day Mrs. O'Neil was cleaning out an oil house, her broom struck a large can. It wouldn't move. Mrs. O'Neil stooped and pried up the lid.

There lay the O'Neil fortune, in gold, hundreds of $20 gold pieces. Search revealed two more cans similarly filled.

Other heirs of the O'Neil fortune besides the widow include two daughters living in Saguache and Mrs. Blanche Lanson, of Portland, Ore., another daughter.

The amount of gold discovered was not revealed, but many estimated it high in the thousands of dollars.

PHYSIOLOGIST WARNS AGAINST INJURING HAIR

BY WALLACE S. HULLETT
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 24.—Woman's hair today is badly in need of a rest-cure.

A warning to women and girls of the dangers of permanently injuring their hair in the quest for beauty was given by Prof. H. J. Harper-Roberts in a lecture at the London College of Physiology.

"So great is woman's desire to improve her beauty," said the Professor, "that she will suffer any indignity and take any risks."

"The practice of shaping the eye-brows is the latest craze among women. If the process is continued for some time, the hair is replucked indefinitely, what is going to happen when the fashion swings around again? It is going to be a shock to the smart woman when she finds she has permanently destroyed the roots of her hair."

Curling the hair with pins or waving irons was declared by Professor Harper-Roberts as "dangerous."

"The pins are all right when used with discretion," he said, "but in some instances they become a serious abuse, because in order to get a tight curl the strain on the roots often results in the hair being torn from the skin. Dyeing is another danger."

WHEN A DRINK ISN'T

BERLIN—Since a tax of 10 per cent has been placed on liquid refreshments, many confectioners have resorted to clever schemes. One is to supply a customer with a lemon and a glass of water. The customer makes his own lemonade, and thus avoids the paying of the tax. Another is the serving of "chocolate" soup in place of hot chocolate drinks. The "soup" comes on a plate and is eaten with a spoon.

The Temptation of Ambition

(Read Luke 1:26-33 and 4:5-8. Text, Luke 4:8.) Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve.

A successful man has described ambition as "a thinking big," and says "it is as easy to think big as to think little." Jesus was thinking big that day in the wilderness. A great program unfolded before his mind's eye. Then came the subtle temptation. How should he go about his great task? Should he employ the means to a quick achievement? And he said, No. He would not be disloyal to God. Success was secondary to being right. Henry Clay said he would rather be right than be president. Very often the choice has to be made between being successful and being right; there are crises in life when one cannot be both. Unfortunately for our young people, the importance of success is too much emphasized.

Prayer: Our Father God, guard our thoughts against the illusion of evil ways. In faithfulness to thy laws renew our strength. In Jesus' name. Amen.

TWELVE GREAT WOMEN

A committee composed of Newton D. Baker,
Dr. Henry Van Dyke, Booth Tarkington, Otto Kahn and Bruce Barton have definitely put their stamp of approval on a list of the twelve greatest living women in the United States. They are: Grace Abbott, Jane Addams, Cecilia Beaux, Martha Berry, Willa Cather, Carrie Chapman
Catt, Grace Coolidge, Minnie Maddern Fiske,
Helen Keller, Florence Rena Sabin, Ernestine
Schumann-Heink and Mary E. Woolley.

The list is suggestive. Only four of the twelve women are married. Only one of them remained in her home, and that one had unusual opportunity for achievement while remaining in the home. She is Mrs. Coolidge. The other eleven did not scorn the home. Home, it is a known fact, to a number of them is infinitely precious. Miss Cecilia Beaux in her autobiography devotes quite a section to her home which she has established in New England, what it means to her, the place it fills in her life. Miss Jane Addams has linked her work with her home so that the atmosphere of the home is the finest resource of the work.

What significance will young girls looking over the list find in it? It appears to be a bulwark to the theory "marriage or a career," though several in the list gloriously defied that theory. The service to humanity performed by many of these women far exceeds the opportunity for service of the woman in the home.
One must have great faith in the worthwhilness of the perfect fulfillment of one's duty in a small niche to follow in the footsteps of one or another of these women, rather than a humble wife and mother. It is characteristic of youth to aim high, to be unappreciative of the small, humble things which contribute to human happiness. Of course, if they could all be mothers of great men and women they would probably ask nothing better. But whether they look for avenues of human service which has brought these women their encomium or more selfishly for fame and fortune, they may wonder whether they are not taking a bigger chance on marriage than something else. Particularly when they hear the idea repeated until it appears true that a "woman's place is in the home."

A great change has come over women's voices in the past 20 years, says a scientist. Yes, they've become more authoritative.

"A DANIEL COME TO JUDGMENT"

Winston Churchill yesterday, while appealing to his constituents in Epping for a vote of confidence, described Mahatma Gandhi as a "seditionary fakir, striding half naked up the streets of the viceregal palace."

Coming just now, when for the first time in all the past months of controversy and trouble and lack of understanding between the opposing forces in India, the two leaders, Viceroy Irwin and Mahatma Gandhi, have actually come into contact, Mr. Churchill's remarks are in shockingly poor taste. Several conclusions could be drawn from the incident about Mr.
Churchill. One is that he is foolish. The other is that he is the kind of man who is willing to profit by misfortune.

To call Mr. Gandhi a "seditionary fakir" isn't going to help the situation; quite the opposite. But it does get a vote of confidence for Mr. Churchill. That was what he was after.
It wasn't patriotic to get his vote of confidence in that fashion. Why was it so easy to get it that way? Because it is a relief to have someone who bothers us called names, particularly when someone else does it, because one has the satisfaction of a kindred spirit. It is temporary relief, however. It gets us nowhere at all. Brings us no better understanding of the individual whom we call names because we don't understand or appreciate them.

There would be fewer day dreamers, says the office sage, if there were a way of taxing a man's yearnings.

WHAT TO THINK

The House Ways and Means committee, by a vote of thirteen to seven, yesterday postponed all tariff and embargo measures against oil importations on the ground that "there will not be sufficient time during the remainder of this session for the consideration of such bills."
Also the Muscle Shoals bill, while it passed the House and Senate, has been sent to the President at a time so near the end of the regular Congressional session as to permit a pocket veto, as President Coolidge vetoed the bill two years ago.

The oil situation in California, with oil pouring in from foreign fields, while the independent operators in this section are forced to close down, or practically so, makes the passage of one of the oil measures important. Nothing would so quickly turn the wheel of fortune in this section as the passage of some form of protection for the independent oil operators which has been introduced into Congress.

When two matters, the one of so great importance, and the other of so long standing, are frustrated in such manner, doubts are occurring in the minds of the common people about the sincerity of efforts to help the people of the country who are naturally doing their very best to help themselves. In some minds the question is coming up whether Congress is running affairs or whether big business is doing so.

Because of the prejudice against congressional sessions, the uncertainty which spread throughout business activity because of a session, there is such antagonism against an extra session of congress, and hence the prolongation of this fear, that there will probably be no extra session, although certainly the matter of the protection of the independent oil operators is sufficiently important to deserve the attention of an extra session of congress.

It is trying to maintain faith in the statements of those who say they are endeavoring to protect individual initiative. There is room for the absolute belief that big interests are running affairs, and the individual not aligned with the biggest interests has short measure.

Twelve players of the Pittsburgh Pirates had their tonsils removed. It's a pity that big leaguers should be involved in minor operations!

MR. FRED RAFFERTY

In the passing of Fred Rafferty yesterday afternoon in his home at 117 East Tenth street, Santa Ana has lost one of her most noted patrons of the arts, and a man whose simplicity of bearing and sterling attributes of character have given him a place of his own in the community.

It was in the field of Oriental art that Fred Rafferty found special interest, and his Chinese collection was the admiration of art students.
His generosity in showing the collection to those interested was noteworthy for students and travelers. In recent years his interest in the occult had been aroused, and he was the author of a book on his investigations of spiritualistic phenomena.

He was one of the founders of the Santa Ana Community Players' association, and served that organization as president in its struggling early years. His interest in the association has continued unabated, and after withdrawing from leadership he continued for a number of years as one of the patrons.

With all his educational and cultural attainments, he never lost that simplicity of bearing that was characteristic. He was never too deep in his own pursuits to listen with interest to those of his friends, and anything that was his was cheerfully loaned to anyone in need of his aid.

And Now For Lobster and Ice Cream

Christian Science Monitor

What a relief! Now one may eat crabmeat, lettuce salad with French or mayonnaise dressing, the piece of blueberry pie that one has been denying oneself, and add to the whole combination a glass of sweet milk—and not feel that any dietetic law has been violated. For the Public Health Service of the United States has spoken, and its word must surely be law! How the rumor got about that certain harmless foods when eaten in conjunction with ordinary foods form a poisonous combination inside the body and thereby cause distress is difficult to find out, one is informed.

But this is not nearly all. More indigestion, one discovers, has been caused by fears about what to eat and what not to eat than by actually eating these unusual and sometimes ingenious combinations. The old-time standby of no acids in conjunction with milk or ice cream receives a knock-out blow. Why, "acid fruits have been found to be decidedly beneficial when eaten with sweet milk." Indeed, "the fruit acids which were perhaps told should not be taken with milk or cocoa is in reality carrying out for you the first step in the digestion of your beverage." There's a right-about-face for you! If one might be permitted to parody a parody, one might comment:

'Tis the voice of the Lobster; I heard it assert
You can eat me and follow with ice cream
dessert;

Add a blueberry pie with sweet milk to boot,
And cap the whole meal with some good acid fruit.

In preference to the multitudinous theories promulgated today regarding quantities and qualities of food, the Public Health Service offers these rules:
Eat moderately but sufficiently of a wide variety of foods which include fresh vegetables and fruits and milk. Your appetite will take care of your caloric intake, and good cooking and pleasant serving will insure you of better digestion. Enjoy your meals and let the vitamins and minerals look out for themselves.
Once more, what a relief! Yet how strangely reminiscent of the greatest dietetic advice ever given: "Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink," or, as the words have been more accurately translated, "Be not overanxious concerning these things."

New Life For Uniforms

New York Times

The historic brilliance of military dress faded a good deal in the war and since. But a writer in Figaro reports that uniforms were never commoner than they are today. If a man has only the skill to punch a hole in a Metro ticket, he is put into uniform. A lackey whose heaviest duty is to open a door is equipped with a constellation of gold buttons.

The French have an inherent fondness for the outward glory of a getup. Even the peaceful members of the Academy have their famous green coat and a sword. It will go hard with them if disarmament means the abolition of uniforms.

Only last month the Conseil d'Etat took action in the matter of the proper costume for the president of the Chamber of Commerce of the Seine.
Since 1809 his official dress has consisted of a modest black robe, decorated with black velvet.
The new ruling authorizes him to wear, "in the exercise of his duties and in official ceremonies, a robe of red silk with facings of black velvet."
If bearskin shawls and gold-fringed epaulettes are to disappear, why shouldn't chambers of commerce, boards of aldermen and Rotary clubs adopt gay uniforms to preserve the picturesque tradition?

Is It Coming To This?
